

ATOMIC CONTRACT ASSAILED

State's REAs Praised

Candidates Laud Public Power At Meeting

Praise for the Nebraska Rural Electric Association from several office-seekers and adoption of resolutions highlighted the sessions of the NREA semi-annual meeting in Lincoln.

Keith Neville of North Platte Democratic candidate for Senator, said the REA program needs to be strengthened in two areas.

There are not enough consumers per mile of transmission line, he said, Neville said the small towns could well be turned over to the REAs to solve this problem.

A second problem, he said, is that REAs in areas which don't get direct benefit from irrigation are called on to subsidize districts which do.

Common Sense

Neville said this could be solved if the Platte Valley association would take over all the generating facilities and transmission lines west of North Platte leaving the rest of the state in the hands of the Loup Valley and Consumer groups.

William Ritchie, Democratic candidate for governor, said that public power "is not creeping socialism. It is common sense. It is public administration of public property."

He said he was opposed to those projects which are for private gain with a loan added to the consumer which he should not have to bear. Public power, he said, should be developed through atomic energy and other sources until every home, ranch and farm is electrified.

'Better Farm Products'

Victor Anderson of Lincoln, Republican candidate for governor, said that agriculture is the most important product which Nebraska has to trade for the eastern dollar. REA, he said brings better and more farm products.

He told the delegates that if elected he will have the "open door policy" and invited them to discuss their problems with him.

Carleton Laird, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Fourth District, said he favors atomic energy development by public groups. It is as much of a resource as water, he said.

"Public power is the promotion of the general welfare," he said. "REA is not a threat to, but an extension of, free enterprise."

'Expansion Needed'

Frank Morrison, of McCook, Democratic candidate for Congress from the First District, said the economic future of Nebraska is tied up with pump irrigation.

To make use of the large supply of underground water, he said, the state must have an ever-increasing supply of electric power to run the pumps.

Diversification of crops and industry requires a rapid expansion of our electric power supply, he said. The building of the transmission line from Gavins Point is imperative and should proceed without delay.

Questions Administration

"We note that this administration is entirely willing to build an atomic energy plant in Ohio for the benefit of private utilities," he said. "We wonder why they are not equally interested in building one for the use of Nebraska's publicly owned REA System."

James E. Lawrence, editor of The Lincoln Star, was chief speaker of the afternoon session.

Lawrence said that power was one of the very important elements to be considered in the construction of a multi-purpose dam. The more irrigation facilities attained in the state, the more the state will be in front of what is ahead of it.

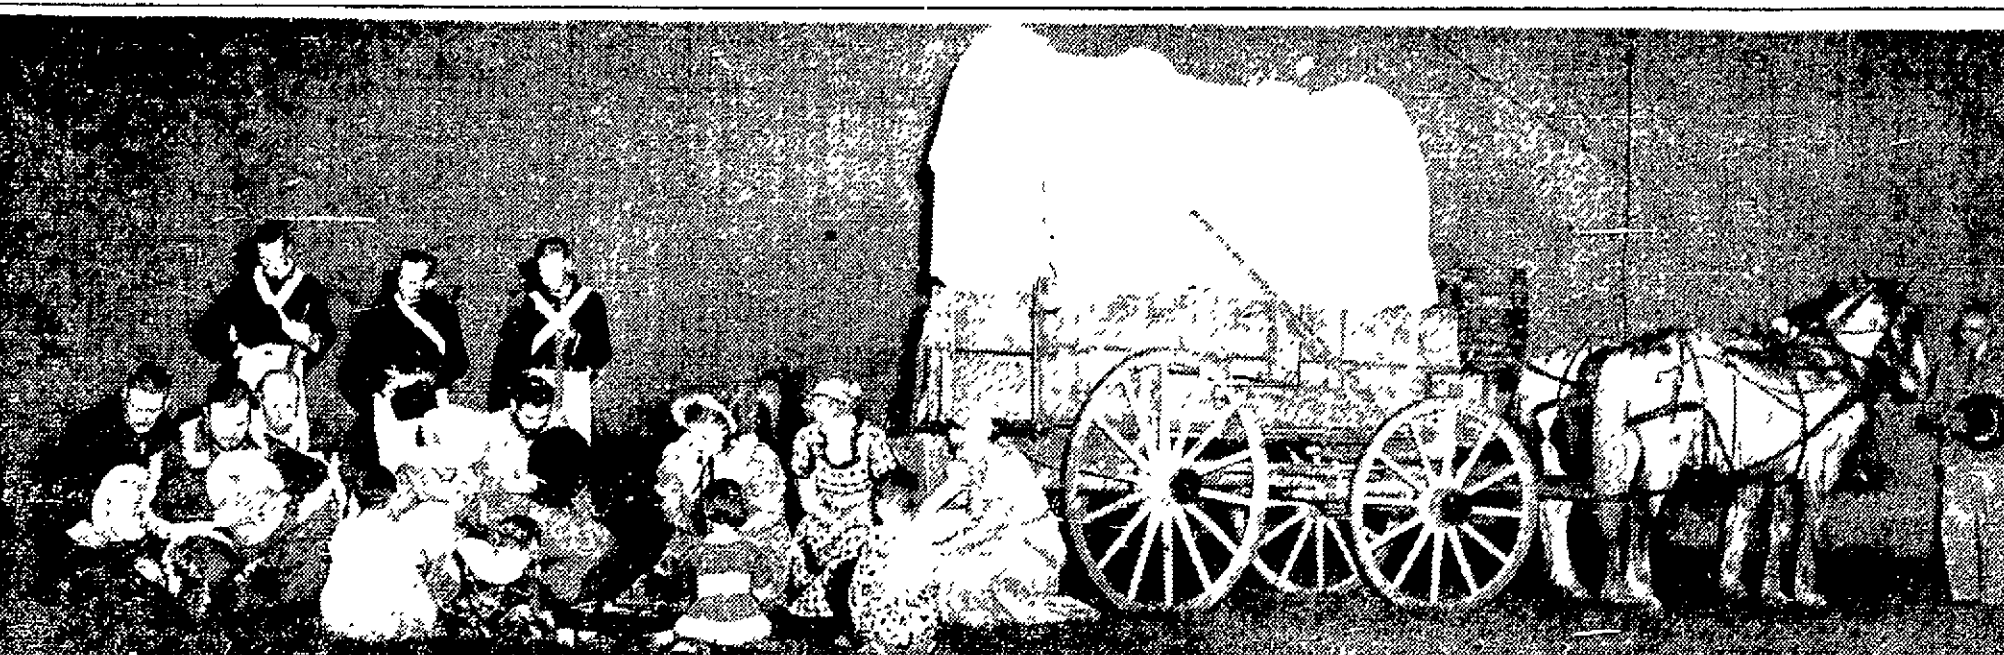

The Missouri Basin Commission, which Lawrence headed, recommended that Congress appropriate funds for lines to deliver the "juice" to the lead center or ultimate consumer.

Cheapest Power The Ideal

However, he pointed out the present administration says it will build only to the state border. One out of the 48 states, he said, will be able to meet the requirements. In the other 47, enabling legislation will have to be taken for them to get the power from the state borders and benefit from the big dams.

Lawrence said the over-all ideal of the public power program should be the cheapest electricity that can be delivered.

2,000 View Nebraska City's Centennial Pageant Opening

Lincoln Star Special

NEBRASKA CITY—An above-expectations crowd of over 2,000 persons attended the first night performance of the huge centennial spectacle, "Prairie Panorama," here Monday night.

The performance, which went very smoothly for a first night performance, was presented at Hayward Park by a cast of 500.

During the prologue of the "Spectacle," Edgar L. Lightbody, superintendent of schools here, crowned Kay Ann Phillips "Miss Nebraska City Centennial of 1954." Queen Kay will reign over the five remaining nights that the pageant is to be given.

The scene which seemed to get the best reception from the enthusiastic audience was the second one, portraying the "Redmen in the New West" and showing the early Indian life as the Lewis and Clark expedition found it.

Roisterous '90s Scene

A close second in the audience's eye was the roisterous portrayal of the Seymour House in the Gay 90s. This gay scene, showing the social, political and general activity at the House, was capped by the early-day Fourth of July celebration.

The Panorama of Past Achievement finale, with the entire cast returning to the stage, was the most impressive. A lavish display of fireworks added a brilliant and explosive end to the 100-years-an-evening saga.

Numbering 20 in all, the scenes covered every facet of early and later-day life in the Missouri River city. Education, wars, riverboats, railroads, prairie schooners, stage coaches, personalities and fashions all added their color to the final picture.

Choir, Bands Perform

The Nebraska City High School choir and band and the municipal band provided entertainment before the pageant began.

Princesses of the queen's court, Donna Dillman, Lucille Davis, Pat Southward, Anita Stanley, June Hauptman, Pat Joiner, Velda Wirth and Margaret Swinney were presented with the queen.

Wednesday night Gov. Robert Crosby will be honored at governor's day. Saturday the whiskey contest and shaving finals will be held.

The entire show will move to the State Fair Grounds in Lincoln Sept. 4 and 5 (the day before and first day of the Fair) for a presentation in the grandstand.

Cupid Hits Hot Pace In 1954

Cupid, that mythical cherub, has shot 32 more arrows so far in 1954 than he did for the same period last year, according to Lancaster County Marriage License Clerk Virginia Tate.

Mrs. Tate said 625 marriage licenses were issued during the first seven months of this year as compared with 593 for the same period in 1953.

June, one of Cupid's favorite months, showed only 159 "hits" as compared with 164 for June a year ago.

July comparisons were 92 in 1954 and 85 in 1953.

Licenses issued in 1953 totalled 1,040. Previous totals were 969 in 1952 and 1,094 in 1951.

Driver Applies Match; Stanley Steamer Starts

NEW YORK (U)—All Paul J. Tusek needed Monday was a match to start his stalled car—a 1936 Stanley Steamer.

Paul's car was in a motorcade of ancient autos making the journey from Fort Lee, N. J., to Times Square to publicize the 10-car American team which sails Aug. 20 for an Anglo-American vintage vehicle meet in England.

A Stanley Steamer won't steam without a pilot light—which failed. But one match later Tusek was on his way.

Tusek, inside fully, hails from Power Point, Ohio.

A-Bill Passes Senate

Last Obstacle On Revision Plan Wiped Out

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate approved Monday night the administration's controversial Atomic Energy Revision Bill and wiped out the last major obstacle to its enactment into law.

The measure, designed to open up nuclear power use in industry and homes and provide U. S. Allies with more atomic information, now goes to the house where it is expected to be passed Tuesday and sent to President Eisenhower.

Senate passage of the measure by a 59 to 17 vote came within hours after Senate House conferees reached agreement on two hotly-contested issues in the bill.

Sen. Bowring, Republican of Nebraska, voted with the 59-17 majority.

The Senate's vote represented a victory for the Eisenhower administration despite the success of Democrats in scaling down some of the provisions to prevent what they called "the giveaway of giveaways" on the development of atomic power.

Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-N. Y.), of the joint Atomic Energy Committee, announced the conference agreement after a one-hour closed meeting in which he and other House members backed down on the two disputed issues.

Under the new version, Cole said private companies entering the atomic power field will be obliged to share patents on technical developments for building the power plants for a five-year period.

Cole also said the conference group agreed to drop from the bill language which opponents claimed would cut down the high preference rating given rural electric co-operatives on government-generated power.

The Hague, Netherlands (U)—The Netherlands Monday vigorously opposed changes proposed by France for the European Defense Community treaty, and a Dutch government spokesman indicated its Benelux partners, Belgium and Luxembourg, would do likewise.

A grave deadlock seemed to be taking shape on the eve of a showdown meeting of the six EDC nations in Brussels.

The Dutch said they could not see how agreement could be reached at the Brussels meeting on the basis of the French proposals. But in Bonn, Germany, an official of the French High Commission insisted:

"There is no possibility the French National Assembly will ratify the European army treaty if the French proposals are rejected. Therefore, a rejection of the French proposals probably will mean there will be no European army."

Key To Its Fate

The Brussels meeting opens Thursday. There French Premier Pierre Mendes-France will argue his case before the other five members of the EDC. Less than two weeks hence, the French National Assembly is scheduled to debate ratification of the treaty. West Germany and the Benelux nations have ratified the treaty. Italy and France have not and the latter is the key to its fate in its present form.

German authorities, awaiting Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's return from vacation for a Cabinet meeting in Bonn Tuesday, maintained official silence on specific points of the French proposals. But since many of the French Premier's suggestions seem to provide for discrimination against Germany, there seemed no easy way for Adenauer to accept them. He was reported dismayed by Mendes-France's proposals, which come at a critical time for his government's foreign policy.

Wilkinson Claims Council Isn't Charging Enough Rent

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

City Councilman Rees Wilkinson chided his City Council colleagues for what he said was their failure to get "proper rental" out of city owned property leased out to private business interests.

Wilkinson cast the only dissenting vote on the lease of the northeast corner of the Rogers Tract, 33rd and O, to A. B. Nebelsick for $100 a month. The councilman noted that Dwayne L. Kushner is paying $200 a month for the inside lot next to Nebelsick. The corner, he said, should be even more valuable.

"It is the duty of the City Council," Wilkinson said, "to get the proper rental out of its properties. When we fail to do so, we are taking money right out of the taxpayer's pocket."

Business Basis

"It is time we placed the rental of property on a business-like basis and obtained sealed bids on such rentals."

It has generally been understood that the city would put both Nebelsick and Kushner off the Rogers Tract before the next year's lease is up. Plans have been developed for the opening of the tract as a city park as originally intended by the donors.

Wilkinson noted, however, that the same argument was advanced five years ago and that no park development was ever realized. Both the Nebelsick and Kushner lease carry a 30 day cancellation clause.

MITCHELL OPENS UP ON IKE . . .

Demo Chairman Charges One Of President's 'Closest Friends' Has Interest In Syndicate

CHICAGO (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell declared Monday President Eisenhower personally ordered awarding of a contract to a syndicate in which one of the President's "closest friends" has an interest.

Mitchell said the President issued a personal order on the awarding of the contract to supply electricity to an atomic installation despite the protests of both the Atomic Energy Commission and the TVA and without competitive bidding.

Mitchell's counterpart in the Republican party, National Chairman Leonard W. Hall called Mitchell's remarks an "unwarranted attack" and said "the American people will rise up and condemn" it.

"Can't Get A Dime"

Mitchell said the Senate Monopoly subcommittee asked for funds to investigate the situation but that "the Republican leadership through Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) bottled up the request so they can't get a dime."

"Here is something that really needs investigating," he said.

In commenting on his remarks later, Mitchell emphasized his statement on the needs for an investigation did not refer directly to the President's role in the incident.

Mitchell's charges were made during a debate with Hall before the Insurance Section of the American Bar Assn.

Hall had challenged Mitchell to cite any "corruption" in the Eisenhower administration, and Mitchell went into the matter of power to be supplied to the atomic energy plant.

90 Million Higher

Mitchell said the contract was for providing electrical power for the atomic energy plant at Paducah, Ky., and was 90 million dollars higher than that offered by a rival syndicate and 140 millions more than TVA would require to supply the power.

After Mitchell discussed the President's role in the atomic energy power controversy, Hall replied:

"When Mr. Mitchell says by implication that President Eisenhower is doing favors for his neighbors, to the detriment of the country's welfare, I believe that the American people will rise up and condemn such an unwarranted attack."

In Washington, James C. Hagerity, White House press secretary, said he had no comment to make on Mitchell's charge.

Mitchell did not mention the name of the person he described as one of the President's "closest friends" during the debate, but his office later said he referred to golfer Bobby Jones.

Prompt Denial

Jones, in Atlanta, quickly replied that Mitchell's remarks "are utterly ridiculous and without foundation."

"I resent any implication," the golfer said, "that the President would be subjected to such an influence and I resent the implication."

State's REAs Praised

Candidates Laud Public Power At Meeting

Praise for the Nebraska Rural Electric Association from several office-seekers and adoption of resolutions highlighted the sessions of the NREA semi-annual meeting in Lincoln.

Keith Neville of North Platte, Democratic candidate for Senator, said the REA program needs to be strengthened in two areas.

There are not enough consumers per mile of transmission line, he said. Neville said the small towns could well be turned over to the REAs to solve this problem.

A second problem, he said, is that REAs in areas which don't get direct benefit from irrigation are called on to subsidize districts which do.

Common Sense
Neville said this could be solved if the Platte Valley association would take over all the generating facilities and transmission lines west of North Platte leaving the rest of the state in the hands of the Loup Valley and Consumer groups.

William Ritchie, Democratic candidate for governor, said that public power "is not creeping Socialism. It is common sense. It is public administration of public property."

He said he was opposed to those projects which are for private gain with a loan added to the consumer which he should not have to bear. Public power, he said, should be developed through atomic energy and other sources until every home, ranch and farm is electrified.

'Better Farm Products'
Victor Anderson of Lincoln, Republican candidate for governor, said that agriculture is the most important product which Nebraska has to trade for the eastern dollar. REA, he said brings better and more farm products.

He told the delegates that if elected he will have the "open door policy" and invited them to discuss their problems with him.

Carleton Laird, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Fourth District, said he favors atomic energy development by public groups. It is as much of a resource as water, he said.

"Public power is the promotion of the general welfare," he said. "REA is not a threat to, but an extension of, free enterprise."

'Expansion Needed'
Frank Morrison, of McCook, Democratic candidate for Congress from the First District, said the economic future of Nebraska is tied up with pump irrigation.

To make use of the large supply of underground water, he said, the state must have an ever-increasing supply of electric power to run the pumps.

Diversification of crops and industry requires a rapid expansion of our electric power supply, he said. The building of the transmission line from Gavins Point is imperative and should proceed without delay.

Questions Administration
"We note that this administration is entirely willing to build an atomic energy plant in Ohio for the benefit of private utilities," he said. "We wonder why they are not equally interested in building one for the use of Nebraska's publicly owned REA System."

James E. Lawrence, editor of The Lincoln Star, was chief speaker of the afternoon session. Lawrence said that power was one of the very important elements to be considered in the construction of a multi-purpose dam. The more irrigation facilities attained in the state, the more the state will be in front of what is ahead of it.

The Missouri Basin Commission, which Lawrence headed, recommended that Congress appropriate funds for lines to deliver the "juice" to the load center or ultimate consumer.

Cheapest Power The Ideal
However, he pointed out, the present administration says it will build only to the state border. One out of the 48 states, he said, will be able to meet the requirements. In the other 47, enabling legislation will have to be taken for them to get the power from the state borders and benefit from the big dams.

Lawrence said the over-all ideal of the public power program should be the cheapest electricity that can be delivered.

2,000 View Nebraska City's Centennial Pageant Opening

Lincoln Star Special

NEBRASKA CITY—An above-expectations crowd of over 2,000 persons attended the first night performance of the huge centennial spectacle, "Prairie Panorama," here Monday night.

The performance, which went very smoothly for a first night performance, was presented at Hayward Park by a cast of 500.

During the prologue of the "Spectacle," Edgar L. Lightbody, superintendent of schools here, crowned Kay Ann Phillips "Miss Nebraska City Centennial of 1954." Queen Kay will reign over the five remaining nights that the pageant is to be given.

The scene which seemed to get the best reception from the enthusiastic audience was the second one, portraying the "Redmen in the New West" and showing the early Indian life as the Lewis and Clark expedition found it.

Roisterous '90s Scene
A close second in the audience's eye was the roisterous portrayal of the Seymour House in the Gay 90s. This gay scene, showing the social, political and general activity at the House, was capped by the early-day Fourth of July celebration.

The Panorama of Past Achievement finale, with the entire cast returning to the stage, was the most impressive. A lavish display of fireworks added a brilliant and explosive end to the 100-years-an-evening saga.

Numbering 20 in all, the scenes covered every facet of early and later day life in the Missouri River city. Education, wars, riverboats, railroads, prairie schooners, stage coaches, personalities and fashions all added their color to the final picture.

Choir, Bands Perform
The Nebraska City High School choir and band and the municipal band provided entertainment before the pageant began.

Princesses of the queen's court, Donna Dillman, Lucille Davis, Pat Southward, Onita Stanley, June Hauptman, Pat Joiner, Velda Wirth and Margaret Swinney were presented with the queen.

Wednesday night Gov. Robert Crosby will be honored at governor's day. Saturday the whisker contest and shaving finals will be held.

The entire show will move to the State Fair Grounds in Lincoln Sept. 4 and 5 (the day before and first day of the Fair) for a presentation in the grandstand.

Cupid Hits Hot Pace In 1954

Cupid, that mythical cherub, has shot 32 more arrows so far in 1954 than he did for the same period last year, according to Lancaster County Marriage License Clerk Virginia Tate.

Mrs. Tate said 625 marriage licenses were issued during the first seven months of this year as compared with 593 for the same period in 1953.

June, one of Cupid's favorite months, showed only 159 "hits" as compared with 164 for June a year ago.

July comparisons were 92 in 1954 and 85 in 1953. Licenses issued in 1953 totalled 1,040. Previous totals were 969 in 1952 and 1,094 in 1951.

Most County Villages' Tax Levies Increased For 1954

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The 1954 tax levies for most villages in Lancaster County were increased as a result of lower assessed valuations this year — largely caused by the state-ordered 10 per cent reduction on town property values.

Only West Lincoln showed an increase in valuation, while the other 12 villages had decreases. West Lincoln's assessed valuation jumped to $217,650, a gain of $39,885 over 1953.

Most villages were forced to raise the levies to obtain as many tax dollars as asked for the previous year. A few, already at the limit for the general levy, will take lesser amounts because of decreased valuation.

Hallam and Panama had sharply increased levies which resulted from water bonds voted during the past year. Hallam's bond levy is 15.20 mills, increased from 14.20.

A-Bill Passes Senate

Last Obstacle On Revision Plan Wiped Out

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate approved Monday night the administration's controversial Atomic Energy Revision Bill and wiped out the last major obstacle to its enactment into law.

The measure, designed to open up nuclear power use in industry and homes and provide U. S. Allies with more atomic information, now goes to the house where it is expected to be passed Tuesday and sent to President Eisenhower.

Senate passage of the measure by a 59 to 17 vote came within hours after Senate House conferees reached agreement on two hotly-contested issues in the bill.

Sen. Bowring, Republican of Nebraska, voted with the 59-17 majority.

The Senate's vote represented a victory for the Eisenhower administration despite the success of Democrats in scaling down some of the provisions to prevent what they called "the giveaway of giveaways" on the development of atomic power.

Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-N. Y.), of the joint Atomic Energy Committee, announced the conference agreement after a one-hour closed meeting in which he and other House members backed down on the two disputed issues.

Under the new version, Cole said private companies entering the atomic power field will be obliged to share patents on technical developments for building the power plants for a five-year period.

Cole also said the conference group agreed to drop from the bill language which opponents claimed would cut down the high preference rating given rural electric co-operatives on government-generated power.

Key To Its Fate
The Brussels meeting opens Thursday. There French Premier Pierre Mendes-France will argue his case before the other five members of the EDC. Less than two weeks hence, the French National Assembly is scheduled to debate ratification of the treaty. West Germany and the Benelux nations have ratified the treaty. Italy and France have not and the latter is the key to its fate in its present form.

German authorities, awaiting Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's return from vacation for a Cabinet meeting in Bonn Tuesday, maintained official silence on specific points of the French proposals. But since many of the French Premier's suggestions seem to provide for discrimination against Germany, there seemed no easy way for Adenauer to accept them. He was reported dismayed by Mendes-France's proposals, which came at a critical time for his government's foreign policy.

Wilkinson Claims Council Isn't Charging Enough Rent

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

City Councilman Rees Wilkinson chided his City Council colleagues for what he said was their failure to get "proper rental" out of city owned property leased out to private business interests.

Wilkinson cast the only dissenting vote on the lease of the north-east corner of the Rogers Tract, 33rd and O, to A. B. Nebelsick for $100 a month. The councilman noted that Dwayne L. Kushner is paying $200 a month for the inside lot next to Nebelsick. The corner, he said, should be even more valuable.

"It is the duty of the City Council," Wilkinson said, "to get the proper rental out of its properties. When we fail to do so, we are taking money right out of the taxpayer's pocket."

Business Basis
"It is time we placed the rental of property on a business-like basis and obtained sealed bids on such rentals."

It has generally been understood that the city would put both Nebelsick and Kushner off the Rogers Tract before the next year's lease is up. Plans have been developed for the opening of the tract as a city park as originally intended by the donors.

Wilkinson noted, however, that the same argument was advanced five years ago and that no park development was ever realized. Both the Nebelsick and Kushner lease carry a 30 day cancellation clause.

Deadlock On EDC Forming

Netherlands Oppose Changes By France

The HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The Netherlands Monday vigorously opposed changes proposed by France for the European Defense Community treaty, and a Dutch government spokesman indicated its Benelux partners, Belgium and Luxembourg, would do likewise.

A grave deadlock seemed to be taking shape on the eve of a showdown meeting of the six EDC nations in Brussels.

The Dutch said they could not see how agreement could be reached at the Brussels meeting on the basis of the French proposals. But in Bonn, Germany, an official of the French High Commission insisted:

"There is no possibility the French National Assembly will ratify the European army treaty if the French proposals are rejected. Therefore, a rejection of the French proposals probably will mean there will be no European army."

City Council's $12,879,730 Budget OK'd

The City Council has approved a total budget for the 1954-55 fiscal year, both tax and non-tax supported departments, of $12,879,730.55, an increase of .54 per cent from the preceding year.

The total budget includes $3,341,227.95 in the general fund and $9,532,502.60 in non tax supported funds. The general fund calls for a levy of 13.1 mills to produce from taxation $1,624,836.23.

The remainder of the general will be composed of $511,492.72 in balances and $1,204,900 in receipts for the year. The limited general fund levy is 11.306 with the unlimited fund, judgments, sinking, social security, interest and auditorium and street opening, set at 1.794.

In the 1953-54 fiscal year, the total budget was $9,612,633.60 with $3,192,880.06 in the general fund. The general fund levy last year was 12.8 to produce $1,565,588.

The budget will now be published for one week with the annual appropriation ordinance introduced next Monday.

90 Million Higher
Mitchell said the contract was for providing electrical power for the atomic energy plant at Paducah, Ky., and was 90 million dollars higher than that offered by a rival syndicate and 140 millions more than TVA would require to supply the power.

After Mitchell discussed the President's role in the atomic energy power controversy, Hall replied:

"When Mr. Mitchell says by implication that President Eisenhower is doing favors for his neighbors, to the detriment of the country's welfare, I believe that the American people will rise up and condemn such an unwarranted attack."

In Washington, James C. Hagerly, White House press secretary, said he had no comment to make on Mitchell's charge.

Mitchell did not mention the name of the person he described as one of the President's "closest friends" during the debate, but his office later said he referred to golfer Bobby Jones.

Prompt Denial
Jones, in Atlanta, quickly replied that Mitchell's remarks "are utterly ridiculous and without foundation."

"I resent any implication" the golfer said, "that the President would be subjected to such an influence and I resent the implication that I would be foolish enough to try to bring such influence to bear."

"Before all this conversation in the press during the last several days about my connection with the thing and while the President was considering and acting on this proposal, I would be very much surprised if he was even aware of the fact that I was on the Board of Directors of the Southern Company, because he and I have never had any conversation about that fact."

No Communication
"Most emphatically I want to say I have never at any time had any communication with the President or anybody else in the government about this so-called Dixon-Yates proposal, either direct or indirect."

"It seems to me that anybody in a responsible position such as Mr. Mitchell should have a little more foundation for remarks of the kind he made."

The proposal to build the generating plant in question was made by two utility groups. One is the Middle South and the other is the Southern Co. Jones said he had a very small number of shares in the Southern Co.

Calls It A Scandal
Said Mitchell:

"Let's look at the Dixon-Yates scandal which occupied so much attention during the atomic energy debate in the Senate a couple of weeks ago."

"Here was a deal to buy power from a plant to be built at West Memphis, Ark., by Dixon-Yates to meet the needs of the atomic energy plant at Paducah."

"A competing syndicate offered to provide the power for 90 million dollars less than Dixon-Yates—and the TVA would provide the power for 140 million less."

MITCHELL OPENS UP ON IKE . . . Finger Pointed At Bobby Jones

Demo Chairman Charges One Of President's 'Closest Friends' Has Interest In Syndicate

CHICAGO (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell declared Monday President Eisenhower personally ordered awarding of a contract to a syndicate in which one of the President's "closest friends" has an interest.

Mitchell said the President issued a personal order on the awarding of the contract to supply electricity to an atomic installation despite the protests of both the Atomic Energy Commission and the TVA and without competitive bidding.

Mitchell's counterpart in the Republican party, National Chairman Leonard W. Hall called Mitchell's remarks an "unwarranted attack" and said "the American people will rise up and condemn" it.

"Can't Get A Dime"
Mitchell said the Senate Monopoly subcommittee asked for funds to investigate the situation but that "the Republican leadership through Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) bottled up the request so they can't get a dime."

"Here is something that really needs investigating," he said. In commenting on his remarks later, Mitchell emphasized his statement on the need for an investigation did not refer directly to the President's role in the incident.

Mitchell's charges were made during a debate with Hall before the Insurance Section of the American Bar Assn.

Hall had challenged Mitchell to cite any "corruption" in the Eisenhower administration, and Mitchell went into the matter of power to be supplied to the atomic energy plant.

IKE SIGNS TAX REVISION BILL

Benefits Doubted By Demos

President Says 'All Americans' Will Be Aided By New Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Monday signed into law the gigantic tax revision bill carrying $1,363,000,000 in tax cuts for millions of individuals and nearly all corporations in its first year.

Putting his signature on the 929-page measure with a flourish before Republican congressional leaders and Treasury officials, Eisenhower left no doubt the tax overhaul will be major GOP ammunition in this fall's election campaign.

He called the bill "monumental" and "excellent," and said it would "benefit all Americans."

"Its passage," the President stated, "is a tribute to a Congress which in this session has made so many major contributions to the prosperity and security of the people of our country."

Total Of $7,400,000,000 Cited
He said the measure is "part of a comprehensive tax program which, since Jan. 1 of this year, will have provided for tax cuts totaling $7,400,000,000—the largest dollar tax cut in any year in the nation's history."

Democrats, however, have refused to concede that the revision bill will work to their disadvantage politically.

They have announced plans to attack it in the upcoming congressional campaign as a benefit chiefly to big corporations and wealthy persons such as large stockholders.

They say the measure does nothing for the little fellow unless he is a victim of special circumstances. Democratic-sponsored attempts to write in an individual tax cut on the floor failed by close margins in the House and Senate.

Veteran Sen. George (D-Ga.), senior Democratic tax expert at the Capitol, told his colleagues today after the President signed the bill its terms "are nothing to be bragging about."

Democrats point out the biggest 1954 tax cuts of which the Republicans boast were fixed in a 1951 law passed by a Democratic Congress. These were the 16 percent personal income tax cut, a three-billion-dollar item; and the expiration of the corporation excess profits tax, a two-billion reduction. Both were effective Jan. 1.

Opposed By Treasury

The other cut was a billion-dollar slash in various excises effective April 1. The Treasury opposed this but Eisenhower signed it at the urging of his Congressional leaders.

Democrats contend the revenue loss from the revision bill eventually will reach three or four billion dollars a year when all of its provisions gain their full effect.

The bill, comprising the first complete overhaul of the nation's tax laws in 75 years, makes no change in present tax rates. These are estimated to bring in slightly more than 60 billion dollars in revenue in the current financial year. But it contains many provisions which the President and Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey believe will give a shot in the arm to business by providing more funds for plant expansion and modernization.

No Inquest In Virginia Youth's Death

Lincoln Star Special

PAWNEE CITY, Neb.—County Attorney William Colwell of Pawnee County said Monday there will be no inquest into the death of Richard Lee Braun of Virginia. The 16-year-old youth died Saturday while mowing grass with an electric mower on the Eric Flesner farm.

Colwell said that as far as authorities could determine, "there was no reason to hold an inquest into the death." He said Sheriff Leland Hunzeker had indicated that he would sign the death certificate as soon as the details are worked out.

"I don't know what Sheriff Hunzeker will write on the death certificate as to the cause of death," Colwell said, "but I assume that it will show it to be accidental."

Funeral services for the youth will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Virginia Christian Church.

Senate Cites C. Lamont For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Monday night cited Corliss Lamont, wealthy New Yorker, on contempt of Congress charges.

The 71-3 roll call vote followed hours of debate in which Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) denounced the son of the late Thomas W. Lamont, while Sen. Langer (R-ND) defended Lamont as "an underdog" despite his riches.

The contempt citation was based on Lamont's testimony at a closed door hearing before McCarthy last Sept. 23 at which Lamont swore that "I am not and never have been a member of the Communist party" but refused to answer many of McCarthy's questions.

At the time McCarthy was sitting as a one-man quorum of his Senate Investigations subcommittee. Lamont refused to base any of his refusals on the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, which protects against compulsory self-incrimination. He based the refusal on a general challenge of McCarthy's authority to question him.

"Whether he is a rich man or poor man, black or white, on the Senate floor he's entitled to a square deal," Langer said in a challenge of McCarthy's handling of the case.

Langer dwelt heavily on a protest Lamont had sent to every member this spring outlining his side of the case. In it Lamont contended that McCarthy had wired him on Sept. 23, informing him that his scheduled appearance at a public hearing in Washington on Sept. 23 was being postponed. But, despite this, Lamont's letter said, at the Sept. 28 meeting McCarthy called his name, and when Lamont did not answer ordered the New York writer's closed door testimony made public as a step toward the contempt action.

Youth Hurt In Accident On Hwy 77

A Lincoln youth, Marvin Hanneman, 13, of 335 E. was hospitalized Monday with chest injuries and fractured ribs following a two-car collision one mile south of Lincoln on Highway 77.

His condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital was described as satisfactory by an attending physician.

E. T. Varner, 26, of 236 D, a passenger in the car driven by Hanneman, was treated for cuts and released by the hospital.

Capt. Dan Casey of the Nebraska Safety Patrol said the north-bound Hanneman car was in collision with a south-bound car driven by Carl Hartman, 43, of Beatrice.

Casey said a third car reportedly pulled out from an intersecting road directly south of the Rock Island overpass and onto the highway in front of the Hanneman car, which swerved sidwiped the Hartman car, and rolled over twice.

Shivers May Kill Drought Aid Request

AUSTIN, Tex. (INS)—Gov. Alan Shivers said Monday he will ask the federal government to stop drought aid for Texas if state agriculture commissioner John C. White requests such a move.

White charged earlier that the federal drought relief program is being run by "Republican political ambitions."

The commissioner said Texas should turn back the federal aid unless the program is altered and made more workable.

Gov. Shivers commented that "he (White) is handling it, and I will be guided by his suggestions. If he recommends that we stop it, I will ask the federal government to stop it."

The governor added "I certainly believe that the drought relief program is a matter which should not have any politics mixed up in it, and we have tried to keep politics out of it."

White said he is "fighting mad" about what he called "mishandling of drought relief." He declared:

"As it is now being administered by the federal government the program is robbing needy farmers and ranchers of their dignity through enforcement of the 'pauper's oath' Clause . . .

"It is being used to build up Republican strength in Texas instead of pulling our agriculture through its biggest crisis in the past two decades."

Irate Divorcees March On County

SAGINAW, Mich. (INS)—Twenty-five irate divorcees, many of them accompanied by their children, marched on the Saginaw County Courthouse Monday to protest against their ex-husbands being behind in support payments.

The women carried placards proclaiming "Unfair to our children" and "We need help."

They blamed county officials, particularly friend of the court Judge Arthur J. Slaggett, for failing to force the delinquent former spouses to pay up.

County officials have explained they are inadequately staffed to promptly chase down erring former husbands.

Ike Gets Bill Hiking U.S. Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed and sent to President Eisenhower Monday legislation hiking the national debt limit six billion dollars temporarily.

Under the measure, the debt can reach 281 billion dollars during this fiscal year but must be down to the present limit of 275 billion by next June 30, the end of the year.

Expressions of doubt that the increase would be temporary were voiced as the House approved the bill by a 193-31 standing vote. House Republican leader Halleck of Indiana said the hike was a "practical matter" but added that Congress would have no alternative but to continue the temporary increase beyond June 30 if conditions at that time make it necessary.

The temporary rise in the debt ceiling was approved by the Senate last week as a substitute for a measure passed by the House last year upping the limit indefinitely to 290 billion dollars.

The administration originally asked for a 15 billion dollar increase but agreed to accept the lower temporary figure after the Senate Finance Committee rejected the greater figure. Obligations subject to the debt limit now stand just under 275 billion.

So the family decided to have the house wrecked rather than bother the tree.

Crash Victim Is 'Responding' To Treatment

Mrs. Martin (Ida) Schidt, 30, of Rt. 7, Lincoln, one of eight persons injured in a two-car collision near Alvo, was partially conscious Monday and "responding to treatment" at a Lincoln hospital.

She was unconscious when taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital with facial fractures and a head injury following the accident. Her condition is fair.

In the head-on collision Sunday evening at the crest of a hill two miles north of Alvo, Miss Herman (Elizabeth) Royal, about 70, was killed.

The other injured are:

Mrs. Roy (Cecilia) Royal, Palmer, fractured facial bones and dislocated hip, good condition. Bryan Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Roy, 40, 4th St., Alvo, fractured skull, good condition. Council OKs Improvement Ordinances

A total of 13 ordinances, all but two for the creation of special improvement districts, have been approved on third reading by the City Council.

One of the districts, water in 65th from Walker to Huntington, is estimated to cost $1,000. Arrangements have been made for the water department to pay one-half the cost of this district.

The city payment is made in lieu of payments by property owners in the area who are now served by water. Property owners receiving the new service agreed to withdraw their objections if the cost that could not be placed where service existed is assumed by the city.

Other ordinances approved: Kern's replat of lots at 15th and Pioneer.

IKE SIGNS TAX REVISION BILL

Benefits Doubted By Demos

President Says 'All Americans' Will Be Aided By New Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday signed into law the gigantic tax revision bill carrying $1,363,000,000 in tax cuts for millions of individuals and nearly all corporations in its first year.

Putting his signature on the 929 page measure with a flourish before Republican congressional leaders and Treasury officials, Eisenhower left no doubt the tax overhaul will be major GOP ammunition in this fall's election campaign.

He called the bill "monumental" and "excellent," and said it would "benefit all Americans."

"Its passage," the President stated, "is a tribute to a Congress which in this session has made so many major contributions to the prosperity and security of the people of our country."

Total Of $7,400,000,000 Cited
He said the measure is "part of a comprehensive tax program which, since Jan. 1 of this year, will have provided for tax cuts totaling $7,400,000,000—the largest dollar tax cut in any year in the nation's history."

Democrats, however, have refused to concede that the revision bill will work to their disadvantage politically.

They have announced plans to attack it in the upcoming congressional campaign as a benefit chiefly to big corporations and wealthy persons such as large stockholders.

They say the measure does nothing for the little fellow unless he is a victim of special circumstances. Democratic-sponsored attempts to write in an individual tax cut on the floor failed by close margins in the House and Senate.

Veteran Sen. George (D-Ga.), senior Democratic tax expert at the Capitol, told his colleagues today after the President signed the bill its terms "are nothing to be bragging about."

Democrats point out the biggest 1954 tax cuts of which the Republicans boast were fixed in a 1951 law passed by a Democratic Congress. These were the 10 percent personal income tax cut, a three-billion-dollar item; and the expiration of the corporation excess profits tax, a two-billion reduction. Both were effective Jan. 1.

Opposed By Treasury
The other cut was a billion-dollar slash in various excises effective April 1. The Treasury opposed this but Eisenhower signed it at the urging of his Congressional leaders.

Democrats contend the revenue loss from the revision bill eventually will reach three or four billion dollars a year when all of its provisions gain their full effect.

The bill, comprising the first complete overhaul of the nation's tax laws in 75 years, makes no change in present tax rates. These are estimated to bring in slightly more than 60 billion dollars in revenue in the current financial year.

But it contains many provisions which the President and Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey believe will give a shot in the arm to business by providing more funds for plant expansion and modernization.

Citizenship Conference To Honor P.R. Targets

WASHINGTON (INS) — Ceremonies for the annual Conference on Citizenship during September will feature a tribute to the victims of the assault on five members of Congress by Puerto Rican Nationalists last March.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., and Miss Waurine Walker, president of the National Education Association, said that besides this tribute the 1,200 delegates to the conference will honor 20 Purple Heart war veterans and have a chance to watch 150 foreign-born men, women and children be sworn to American citizenship.

No Inquest In Virginia Youth's Death

Lincoln Star Special

PAWNEE CITY, Neb.—County Attorney William Colwell of Pawnee County said Monday there will be no inquest into the death of Richard Lee Braun of Virginia. The 16-year-old youth died Saturday while mowing grass with an electric mower on the Eric Flesner farm.

Colwell said that as far as authorities could determine, "there was no reason to hold an inquest into the death." He said Sheriff Leland Hunzeker had indicated that he would sign the death certificate as soon as the details are worked out.

"I don't know what Sheriff Hunzeker will write on the death certificate as to the cause of death," Colwell said, "but I assume that it will show it to be accidental."

Funeral services for the youth will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Virginia Christian Church.

Senate Cites C. Lamont For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Monday night cited Corliss Lamont, wealthy New Yorker, on contempt of Congress charges.

The 71-3 roll call vote followed hours of debate in which Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) denounced the son of the late Thomas W. Lamont, while Sen. Langer (R-ND) defended Lamont as "an underdog" despite his riches.

The contempt citation was based on Lamont's testimony at a closed door hearing before McCarthy last Sept. 23 at which Lamont swore that "I am not and never have been a member of the Communist party" but refused to answer many of McCarthy's questions.

At the time McCarthy was sitting as a one-man quorum of his Senate Investigations subcommittee. Lamont refused to base any of his refusals on the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, which protects against compulsory self-incrimination. He based the refusal on a general challenge of McCarthy's authority to question him.

"Whether he is a rich man or poor man, black or white, on the Senate floor he's entitled to a square deal," Langer said in a challenge of McCarthy's handling of the case.

Langer dwelt heavily on a protest Lamont had sent to every member this spring outlining his side of the case. In it Lamont contended that McCarthy had wired him on Sept. 25, informing him that his scheduled appearance at a public hearing in Washington on Sept. 23 was being postponed. But, despite this, Lamont's letter said, at the Sept. 23 meeting McCarthy called his name, and when Lamont did not answer ordered the New York writer's closed door testimony made public as a step toward the contempt action.

Youth Hurt In Accident On Hwy 77

A Lincoln youth, Marvin Hanneman, 18, of 335 E. was hospitalized Monday with chest injuries and fractured ribs following a two-car collision one mile south of Lincoln on Highway 77.

His condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital was described as "satisfactory" by an attending physician.

E. T. Varner, 26, of 236 D, a passenger in the car driven by Hanneman, was treated for cuts and released by the hospital.

Capt. Dan Casey of the Nebraska Safety Patrol said the north-bound Hanneman car was in collision with a south-bound car driven by Carl Hartman, 43, of Beatrice.

Casey said a third car reportedly pulled out from an intersecting road directly south of the Rock Island overpass and onto the highway in front of the Hanneman car, which swerved, sideswiped the Hartman car, and rolled over twice.

Shivers May Kill Drought Aid Request

AUSTIN, Tex. (INS)—Gov. Alan Shivers said Monday he will ask the federal government to stop drought aid for Texas if state agriculture commissioner John C. White requests such a move.

White charged earlier that the federal drought relief program is being ruined by "Republican political ambitions."

The commissioner said Texas should turn back the federal aid unless the program is altered and made more workable.

Gov. Shivers commented that "he (White) is handling it, and I will be guided by his suggestions. If he recommends that we stop it, I will ask the federal government to stop it."

The governor added: "I certainly believe that the drought relief program is a matter which should not have any politics mixed up in it, and we have tried to keep politics out of it."

White said he is "fighting mad" about what he called "mismanagement of drought relief." He declared: "As it is now being administered by the federal government the program is robbing needy farmers and ranchers of their dignity through enforcement of the 'poor man's oath' Clause . . .

"It is being used to build up Republican strength in Texas instead of pulling our agriculture through its biggest crisis in the past two decades."

Irate Divorcees March On County

SAGINAW, Mich. (INS) — Twenty-five irate divorcees, many of them accompanied by their children, marched on the Saginaw County Courthouse Monday to protest against their ex-husbands being behind in support payments.

The women carried placards proclaiming "Unfair to our children" and "We need help."

They blamed county officials, particularly friend of the court Judge Arthur J. Slagert, for failing to force the delinquent former spouses to pay up.

County officials have explained they are inadequately staffed to promptly chase down erring former husbands.

Ike Gets Bill Hiking U.S. Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed and sent to President Eisenhower Monday legislation hiking the national debt limit six billion dollars temporarily.

Under the measure, the debt can reach 281 billion dollars during this fiscal year but must be down to the present limit of 275 billion by next June 30, the end of the year.

Expressions of doubt that the increase would be temporary were voiced as the House approved the bill by a 193-31 standing vote. House Republican leader Halleck of Indiana said the hike was a "practical matter" but added that Congress would have no alternative but to continue the temporary increase beyond June 30 if conditions at that time make it necessary.

The temporary rise in the debt ceiling was approved by the Senate last week as a substitute for a measure passed by the House last year upping the limit indefinitely to 290 billion dollars.

The administration originally asked for a 15 billion dollar increase but agreed to accept the lower temporary figure after the Senate Finance Committee rejected the greater figure. Obligations subject to the debt limit now stand just under 275 billion.

TREE GROWS; HOUSE GOES

LEBANON, Ore. (INS) — The Horton Tyler family is building a new house because a pet tree grew too big.

The elm tree, now 62 years old, has reached an average spread of 112 feet and stands 40 feet high. It completely envelops the family's eight-room house.

So the family decided to have the house wrecked rather than bother the tree.

Crash Victim Is 'Responding' To Treatment

Mrs. Martin (Ida) Schildt, 30, of Rt. 7 Lincoln, one of eight persons injured in a two-car collision near Alvo, was partially conscious Monday and "responding to treatment" at a Lincoln hospital.

She was unconscious when taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital with facial fractures and a head injury following the accident. Her condition is fair.

In the head-on collision Sunday evening at the crest of a hill two miles north of Alvo, Mrs. Herman (Elizabeth) Royal, about 70, was killed.

The other injured are:

Mrs. Roy (Cecilia) Royal, Palmira, 34, fractured facial bones and dislocated hip, good condition, Bryan Memorial.
LeRoy Roy, 5, Palmira, (her son), nose fracture, good condition, Bryan Memorial.
Martin Schildt, 34, Rt. 7 Lincoln, facial cuts and slight foot injury, good condition, Bryan Memorial.
Roy Royal, 38, Palmira, fractured ankle, good condition, Bryan Memorial.
Ray Murphy, 26, 2821 S. chest injury, good condition, Bryan Memorial.
Mr. Selma Spann, 36, 2821 S. possible chest injuries and rib fractures, also lacerations, good condition, St. Elizabeths.
Don Spann, 14, (her son), rib fractures, good condition, St. Elizabeths.

Schildt said he was riding in the back seat of the Murphy car with his wife. The other car was driven by Roy Royal. The dead woman, his mother, was riding in the front seat.

Council OKs Improvement Ordinances

A total of 13 ordinances, all but two for the creation of special improvement districts, have been approved on third reading by the City Council.

One of the districts, water in 65th from Walker to Huntington, is estimated to cost $1,000. Arrangements have been made for the water department to pay one-half the cost of this district.

The city payment is made in lieu of payments by property owners in the area who are now served by water. Property owners receiving the new service agreed to withdraw their objections if the cost that could not be placed where service existed is assumed by the city.

Other ordinances approved:

Kerry's replat of lots at 44th and Pioneer.
Vacation of 50th, C to Valley Rd.
Paving of Mohawk, 40th to 44th.
Water in Mohawk, 40th to 42nd.

GOP Has Lost Southern Hold---Carter Won't Carry Single State In '56 Vote

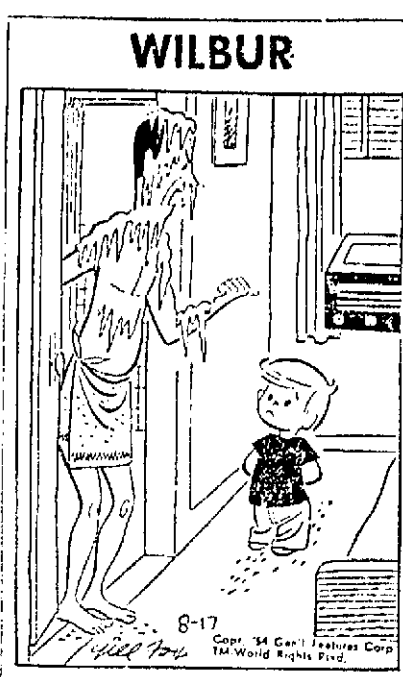

NEW YORK (AP) — Holding Carter, a Pulitzer prize winning Southern editor says he has not found a single Dixie editor or established political leader who believes the GOP can carry a Southern state in 1956.

Carter, publisher of the Greenville, Miss., Delta Democrat-Times said that since 1952, when President Eisenhower won four states, the Republican party has slipped in the South probably "to as weak and submerged a position as it has had in this century."

His views are published in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

Six Reasons
Carter gives six reasons: The Southern habit of voting Democratic, the South's "evaluation of Mr. Eisenhower's conduct as a President," the Democratic party's "smart political treatment of the erring South," the "unchecked role" of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), the racial question and "a conglomeration of Southern objections" to GOP policies.

"Perhaps," he adds, "the Republicans didn't really have any idea of trying to hold onto what they won in the South, through the possibly correct reasoning that their showing resulted only from Mr. Eisenhower's personal popularity."

Gov. Robert Crosby had gone to Estes Park, Colo., Monday to begin a 10-day vacation.

He will fly back to Nebraska briefly on Wednesday, however, to participate in the Nebraska City centennial celebration, and return to Colorado Thursday for the remainder of his vacation.

It is the first vacation he has taken with his family since he became governor 20 months ago. He is expected back at his office at the capitol early next week.

IKE VACATION HEADQUARTERS TAKING SHAPE

WASHINGTON (INS) — White House staff members Monday began the formidable task of setting up President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters in Denver for which city the chief executive will leave as soon as Congress adjourns.

Seven clerical workers put a load of White House records and office supplies aboard the presidential airplane, the Columbine, and headed for Denver, where they will spend the rest of the week getting ready for Mr. Eisenhower's arrival.

The President's son, Maj. John D. Eisenhower, and his family were passengers aboard the Columbine as far as Glenview Naval Air Station, near Chicago.

They were to deplane there and proceed to the Illinois home of the younger Mrs. Eisenhower's parents for a visit until Sept. 1, when the major enrolls at the Army's Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Maj. Eisenhower, an infantry officer, has been on temporary duty at the White House for several weeks, as a presidential aide.

Lehman, McCarthy Clash:

Senate Votes To Cite 2 For Refusing Answers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Monday to cite Abraham Unger of New York City and Albert Shadowitz of Nutley, N.J., for contempt of the Senate for their refusal to answer questions last year before the investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

A third citation — against author Corliss Lamont — was pending.

McCarthy and Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY), engaged in a sharply worded debate over the citations against Unger and Shadowitz and on both Lehman recorded himself as opposed to the action.

McCarthy "shocked" At one point in the debate, McCarthy told Lehman that he was "very, very much shocked and disturbed to find Communist jargon" used on the floor of the Senate by Lehman in behalf of a man McCarthy termed a "Communist organizer."

This man was Unger, who told the subcommittee last September it had "no authority to inquire into the political beliefs and opinions of any person."

Neither Unger nor Shadowitz invoked the Fifth Amendment in their refusal to testify.

Lehman said the Supreme Court would rule soon on the question whether the First Amendment—which guarantees freedom of speech and belief—is a legal safeguard for witnesses before congressional committees who refuse to answer questions.

Some congressional committees recognize only the Fifth Amendment—which protects a witness from compulsory self-incrimination.

Lehman told McCarthy he was "sorry" to have "disappointed" the Wisconsin senator but that he would "continue to seek to protect the civil liberties" of Americans.

McCarthy replied tartly that Lehman had not "disappointed" him.

"I said you shocked me," McCarthy said.

Unclaimed Refund Tax Ruling Given

Unclaimed refunds from money collected under the invalid Blanket Tax act of 1949 may be turned into the county general fund by the county board after the statute of limitations has run, the attorney general's office ruled Monday.

Kearney Co. Atty. Charles Chapell requested the opinion. The Blanket Tax Act was passed by the Legislature in 1949 as a means of making sure that all property paid some school tax. The act was aimed at correcting the situation where property in some districts paid no school tax for several years when no school was maintained.

The Supreme Court held the act was unconstitutional, and provision was made for refunding the tax collected in 1950 and 1951.

Refund warrants must be presented for payment within five years after they are issued, the attorney general's opinion pointed out.

Unclaimed Refund Tax Ruling Given

Unclaimed refunds from money collected under the invalid Blanket Tax act of 1949 may be turned into the county general fund by the county board after the statute of limitations has run, the attorney general's office ruled Monday.

The Blanket Tax Act was passed by the Legislature in 1949 as a means of making sure that all property paid some school tax. The act was aimed at correcting the situation where property in some districts paid no school tax for several years when no school was maintained.

The Supreme Court held the act was unconstitutional, and provision was made for refunding the tax collected in 1950 and 1951.

Refund warrants must be presented for payment within five years after they are issued, the attorney general's opinion pointed out.

Lehman, McCarthy Clash:

Senate Votes To Cite 2 For Refusing Answers

WASHINGTON (P)—The Senate voted Monday to cite Abraham Unger of New York City and Albert Shadowitz of Nutley, N.J., for contempt of the Senate for their refusal to answer questions last year before the investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

A third citation — against author Corliss Lamont — was pending.

McCarthy and Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY), engaged in a sharply worded debate over the citations against Unger and Shadowitz and on both Lehman recorded himself as opposed to the action.

At one point in the debate, Mc-Carthy told Lehman that he was "very, very much shocked and disturbed to find Communist jargon" used on the floor of the Senate by Lehman in behalf of a man Mc-Carthy termed a "Communist organizer."

This man was Unger, who told the subcommittee last September it had "no authority to inquire into the political beliefs and opinions of any person."

Neither Unger nor Shadowitz invoked the Fifth Amendment in their refusal to testify.

Lehman said the Supreme Court would rule soon on the question whether the First Amendment—which guarantees freedom of speech and belief — is a legal safeguard for witnesses before congressional committees who refuse to answer questions.

Some congressional committees recognize only the Fifth Amendment—which protects a witness from compulsory self-incrimination.

Lehman told McCarthy he was "sorry" to have "disappointed" the Wisconsin senator but that he would "continue to seek to protect the civil liberties" of Americans.

McCarthy replied tartly that Lehman had not "disappointed" him.

"I said you shocked me," Mc-Carthy said.

In Two Test Cases

Lost in the shuffle in last Tuesday's election was the fact that in the matter of government on the local level two Nebraska communities—Grand Island and Chadron—expressed themselves on retaining the city manager form of government or returning to the mayor-council form.

Grand Island experienced a rather spirited campaign in the effort to toss its city manager system out and to restore the mayor-council organization which had preceded it. But Grand Island decided it would retain the city manager system, and while the margin by which it reached its decision was not too impressive, yet the vote in light of the discussion which had preceded it, could be counted decisively.

In Chadron the result was even more emphatic. Contrary to the pattern set in much of the state, there was enough interest at Chadron to bring out an unusually heavy vote, and there the city manager plan found sufficient favor that the voters blunked it down for its retention by almost two to one.

On the local level, one of the most difficult present-day questions relates to city government. We always have felt that it was not solely the mechanics of city government that insured results. The men administering it were no less important. But the growing experience in many sections suggests that more and more up-and-coming cities are turning towards the city manager plan. Obviously unless a highly qualified, capable administration is placed in charge, no city manager form of government will succeed. But when those qualifications become available to the people of a community, there is some sense in the conclusion that the city manager form is the answer to present-day governmental needs of the American city.

Flowers Of Spring

Two of the sprightliest lines in one of the old favorite Gilbert and Sullivan light operas run something like this:

"The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, have nothing to do with the case!"

Boy, how De Wolf Hopper could make those lines stick in memory a long time when he pranced across a stage in a Gilbert and Sullivan revival!

A party which in 1952 campaigned intensively on the issue of balancing the budget has just requested a Republican-controlled Congress to increase the national debt limit from $275 billions to $290 billions. There were no strings attached to that requested increase. Up jumped treasury watchdog Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, a conservative southern Democrat, to protest. And out of the discussion of increasing the national debt by $15 billions came a compromise by which Congress approved a temporary $6 billion increase effective only until next June 30.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

When this was written, House and Senate conferees were engaged in ironing out existing differences between the two branches of government in the hope of reaching agreement within a few hours on the Eisenhower farm program. Continued downward drifts in the prices for eggs, poultry, and other items of agricultural concern strangely have been blotted out to some extent general recognition in the rural areas of this country that it is facing a highly important period of transition. What is taking place is of great historical importance. The farmer has experienced the most prosperous era he has ever known. What is ahead for him?

There could be a touch of irony in these recent months, particularly if the observation of a capable, experienced Washington observer is borne out by future developments. He suggested that in this adjustment to a new farm program based upon the system of flexible price supports, the American wheat grower will discover he was hardest hit. If that is true—and it will not take more than a year or two for the Nebraska wheat grower to find out, if it takes that long—then between 40,000 or 50,000 farm families in what is now called a one-party state are due to get it in the neck. But directly to the south, a good neighbor, Kansas, occupies a more vulnerable position. Kansas is the greatest wheat-growing state in the Union. It rarely produces fewer than 150 million bushels of wheat annually. In 1952 a record-breaking harvest of 308 million bushels, an approximate 40 per cent of America's domestic needs, set an all-time high mark for a state where wheat is the principal crop and where diversification, perhaps, has been developed less than in any other state in the Union. Year after year Kansas stands at the tops as the chief wheat-producing state in the country. Year after year Kansas votes Republican, straying only from the path when farm distress arouses its political anger.

Now, Rep. Clifford Hope, of Kansas, is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. He and his committee associates held extensive hearings in advance of this 83rd session of Congress. They traveled thousands of miles, took voluminous testimony, and while that testimony reflected a lack of agreement among farm people with reference to a farm program, the committee was impressed that the clearest note, the dominant note to which it listened was the feeling among farmers that price supports based upon 90 per cent of parity represented the sentiment of the greatest single farm bloc. Mr. Hope has not been enthusiastic for the Benson program of flexible price supports. The general understanding is that he was opposed to the Benson plan.

This writer served on a commission of which Mr. Hope was a member. He has the highest regard for the Kansan, who is one of the better legislators in the lower house of Congress, thorough in his work, scholarly, and most considerate of all people. Now, if it turns out that the wheat farmer is the hardest hit of all in this new farm program, it is indeed ironic that a man who served agriculture as faithfully as Cliff Hope finds himself the victim of his own party's policy. The wheat grower finds himself caught between two prongs. The support price for wheat is set. At the same time, the wheat grower, if he votes for the program administered by Secretary Benson, finds himself confronted with the necessity of accepting down two drastic reductions in acreage in a 24-month period. A year ago he took a cut averaging 18 per cent nationwide (it was 20 per cent in Nebraska) and again this year, looking ahead to 1955, he faces a 12 per cent cut in acreage. So he not only knows that the price support prop has been kicked out from under him to some degree, but that the number of acres he can plant if he votes up in the program has been slashed severely, approximately a third in two years. A Lancaster County farmer told us that on the 640 acres he owns in that county, his 1955 allotment permitted him to plant just 65 acres to wheat.

There is some basis for suggesting that the recent wheat referendum in this state was a sharp, rising voiced protest.

when the debt ceiling again will drop to $275 billions.

Maybe. If in the meantime government spending has been of such a nature as to force the Eisenhower administration to continue to resort to deficit spending—meaning that that which Uncle Sam dishes out exceeds that which Uncle Sam takes in—then the so-called wise compromise rigged up by Byrd could result in only one thing. With the debt limit dropping back to $275 billions on June 30—if Uncle Sam actually owed more than $275 billions next June 30—by gosh, then the old dodger will have spent beyond his debt limit!

So what? Having walked up the hill, if the outstanding debt come June 30 next is in excess of $275 billions, then the same wise, courageous Senate including Brother Byrd, will march right back down again, no doubt wiser and perhaps sadder.

If there is any moral to be drawn, it is that when it comes to a balanced budget, with the implication that the next step is towards reduction in the national debt, then a party should know what it is doing before it tosses out a bunch of promises in breezy spirit. One thing which Ike has discovered since moving into the White House is that there's many a slip twixt cup and lip.

Fisherman's Code

For some reason or other, the heat perhaps, Iowa's fishermen have lost control of their story telling. Things have gotten into such a bad state, they say, that some of the most stable liars were found to be so confused that they actually were under-rating their catches.

But we are glad to report that the Iowa Conservation Commission has stepped in to bring order out of confusion, intending to get the stories back on a basis of consistent falsification. It has issued an official weight and measurement scale which one can refer to as a true point from which to begin the exaggeration.

Henceforth in Iowa a 5-pound channel cat will have to be 23 inches long, a 1½ pounder, 16½ inches, and a 10-pounder 29 inches. Also 24½-inch northern pike will have to weigh 3.25 pounds while a 10-pound northern will have to measure out 35 inches. And a half-pound walleye must be 12 inches long and a seven-pounder must measure 28 inches. The commission also suggests that the listener memorize the scale. It will help him to appreciate the quality of the teller's imagination.

The Unfaithful

Congress ought to pass a law forbidding domestic reading of foreign periodicals, not that they might subvert patriotic political thinking, but that they raise a disturbing question of who owns what in this world. Take London Punch, for instance. As one leafs its pages, the eye encounters one advertisement after another of concerns presumed to be strictly American, talking British and living at addresses which give no hint that they ever heard of places like Detroit or Cleveland or New York.

Obviously the British believe they own the concerns which we have always considered as ours. The situation raises the troubling question, are we dominating British business or are they dominating us, or are we so tied together that there is no real distinction? Nationalism cannot flourish under such disquieting suggestions and misplaced loyalty to presumed home institutions can lead the individual citizens of the involved countries into all sorts of ill will.

The New West

Who says the West isn't turning out its share of rugged he-men, a fair enough counterpart of those rootin', tootin', two-gun shootin' muscle-men of yesteryear's sagebrush sagas? With Colorado Springs and Monte Vista in the San Luis Valley holding rodeos simultaneously, many of the top performers are managing to take part in both by commuting the 150 miles daily between afternoon and evening shows. Maybe the boys aren't getting saddle sore, exactly, but our guess is that they may be a little Cadillac-collared before rodeo season is over.

The Farringtons' Try For Hawaii Statehood

WASHINGTON—It was a cool June Saturday in Washington. Joe Farrington, longtime Hawaiian delegate to the Congress of the United States, came into his office and announced to his staff: "It's too nice a day to answer mail. Go on out and enjoy yourselves. I'll be busy talking to congressmen, and I won't need you."

Then patiently he went the rounds of seven members of the House Rules Committee. He was trying to persuade them to help fulfill his life's greatest ambition—making Hawaii the 49th state of the Union.

The seven members of the rules committee held the key to Hawaiian statehood. For the statehood bill was bottled up in that committee, waiting a joint conference with the Senate. It had been bottled up for months, all because the Republican leadership didn't want the bill out.

So Joe Farrington plodded from office to office trying to persuade key members of the rules committee to permit Hawaiian statehood to come up for action. And having spent all Saturday morning calling on congressmen, Joe Farrington came back to his office after lunch, sat down at his desk, tired and discouraged, and quietly passed away.

Earlier that winter, Mrs. Farrington, knowing Joe had a weak heart and a burning ambition, had told friends: "If Joe doesn't get statehood this session, I'm afraid it will kill him."

Two months passed. In the interim, Mrs. Farrington was overwhelmingly elected by Hawaiians to fill her husband's shoes and came back to Washington for the closing days of Congress.

She knew that the statehood bill was deadlocked, perhaps hopelessly, first because the Republicans had broken their pledge of admitting both Alaska and Hawaii as states simultaneously; second because the Democrats refused to act on Hawaiian statehood unless Alaska got equal treatment; also she knew that Eisenhower was flatly opposed to Alaska.

But finally she knew that nothing could better serve as a memorial to her dead husband than action on Hawaii now. So she went to see President Eisenhower.

He was most cordial. But among other things he said:

"I am just opposed to having a little group of people down in the southern end of Alaska controlling the rest of a vast area that is so important to our defense."

"I know that you as a military commander are accustomed to figuring long-range objectives," countered Mrs. Farrington. "And you plan your tactics step-by-step to reach that objective."

"But," she interrupted herself, "imagine my telling you, the President, what to do."

"You go right ahead," prompted the President.

"Well, did you ever figure," said Mrs. Farrington, "that a state can set aside military reservations, and some of the northern parts of Alaska might be set aside as military reservations for defense purposes? We had some experience with military government in Hawaii during the war, and it's sometimes easier for a state to enact laws to defend itself than a territory."

Mrs. Farrington went on to plead for both Alaskan and Hawaiian statehood, knowing that they must be tied together to get them through Congress.

"All I want you to do," she concluded, "is to tell Speaker Joe Martin and Charlie Halleck that they are to let the statehood bill out of the rules committee so we can vote on it."

Finally Eisenhower asked her to outline the facts she had given him to his chief liaison man with Congress, Gen. Jerry Persons. This she did. And since Persons didn't take any notes, and since she was afraid he would forget some of the legal points she made regarding ways and means of setting up military reservations for Pacific defense, Mrs. Farrington got a lawyer to draw up a careful memorandum over the week end and delivered it to the White House late Sunday evening.

She wanted the President to be prepared when he sat down with Speaker Martin and Halleck for their strategy conference Monday morning.

Mrs. Farrington had been with her husband in Washington a long time. She knew how easy it is to pass the buck. She knew how the White House blames congressional leaders, and how Republican leaders blame the Democrats—and vice versa.

She also knew that Speaker Martin blamed ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn for bottling up Hawaiian statehood, so she went to see both of them.

Martin at first was adamant. He said it was too late in the evening, that the rules committee wasn't going to meet anymore.

"The committee can't meet just to vote on one bill," he said when Mrs. Farrington asked that it be called to act on Hawaiian statehood. "Every other congressman with a bill in the rules committee would be clamoring to have his taken up, too."

Ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn was a bit more hopeful. He turned his Texas charm on Mrs. Farrington, and she turned her feminine charm on him.

He argued that he was not leading the Congress. She argued that all the Democrats listened to him, and quite a few Republicans. Finally she got a promise that if she could switch some votes on the rules committee and get the Hawaiian bill unbotled, he wouldn't oppose her.

Mrs. Farrington is still wearing out shoe-leather on capitol corridors, still using her charm on callous congressional leaders. She knows she may not get anywhere. She knows that only a few price-less days, even hours, remain before Congress adjourns. But she is still trying desperately to continue where her husband left off when he came back to his office after interviewing members of the rules committee, sat down at his desk, tired and discouraged, and quietly joined his Maker.

DORIS FLEESON

President Prepares To 'Make Best' Of Curtis

WASHINGTON — The voters went wrong in two primaries last week, one in each party, from the point of view of national campaign managers.

The Eisenhower administration preferred Gov. Robert Crosby for one of the Senate vacancies in Nebraska, but Nebraskans named Rep. Carl T. Curtis from the conservative-isolationist wing of the state GOP.

Democrats here frankly did their best to help state Rep. Claude Burtenshaw, a political science professor of Ricks College, win their Senate nomination in Idaho. Instead, Idaho Democrats chose former Sen. Glen Taylor, the "singing cowboy" who was the candidate for vice president with Henry Wallace on the Progressive ticket in 1948.

The White House will make the best of Rep. Curtis as they have done with a similar type, Joseph T. Meek, the Republican nominee against Sen. Paul Douglas in Illinois. Meek supported the Bricker amendment, praised Sen. McCarthy and campaigned as a "no label" Republican. However, running against a strong incumbent, he needs the Eisenhower coatails and Eisenhower needs his seat.

So Meek wrote the President a letter which reliable sources say was sent back once to him by the White House for a little re-writing along certain suggested lines. It finally arrived with a pledge of "loyalties and support" and, the President replied with a hearty "welcome to Washington on Jan. 3." The President will also visit the Illinois State Fair this month.

Rep. Curtis, who has been in the House since 1940, comes from what is practically a one-party state, so possibly he can afford to be as independent of the President as he has been during his career on the Ways and Means Committee. It is believed that Nebraska is less solid than usual this year because of slipping farm prices, but it would have to slide a long way really to endanger Curtis and his running mates.

The more liberal Republicans of Nebraska put their man in the other vacancy: Rep. Roman Hruska. Thus the situation will be, from the White House point of view, about what it was when the late Senators Butler and Griswold, both of whom died this year, occupied the two seats.

Democratic National Chairman Mitchell is debating what, if anything, he ought to say about the Taylor candidacy. He had high hopes of the nomination and election of Burtenshaw, who lost to incumbent Republican Sen. Dworshak in 1950 by only 7,500 votes. Now it is expected that many Idaho Democrats will stay home.

With his progressive party history, Taylor is more to the Democrats than somebody they don't think much of. That party was Communist-dominated and his Democratic candidacy is a symbol of what Democrats are fighting hard against, which is the McCarthy charge of treason.

Taylor will get neither help nor money from Washington. Yet it is by no means certain, according to political scouts of both parties, that he won't be back.

According to a Republican who watched him in the primary, he remains a remarkably adroit campaigner in the small towns and rural areas. This man predicted Taylor's nomination and he is not laying any bets on Dworshak. In the end, he thinks the Burtenshaw Democrats will hold their noses and vote for Taylor.

Also, Idaho Republicans are split between President Eisenhower's backers and admirers of Sen. McCarthy. This kind of split will probably not be narrowed by the Senate censure hearings and eventual outcome.

Garden Glances With The Moon

How vainly men themselves amaze
To win the palm, the oak, or bays;
And their incessant labors see
Crowned from some single herb or tree
Whose short and narrow-verged shade
Does prudently their toils unshade;
While all flowers and all trees do close
To weave the garlands of repose.

Fair Quiet, have I found thee here,
And Innocence, thy sister dear?
Mistaken long, I sought you then
In busy companies of men,
Your sacred plants, if here below,
Only among the plants will grow
Society is all but rude
To this delicious solitude.

Meanwhile, the mind, from pleasure less,
Withdraws into its happiness:
The mind, that ocean where each kind
Does straight its own resemblance find;
Yet it creates, transcending these,
Far other worlds and other seas
Annihilating all that's made
To a green thought in a green shade.

—from Andrew Marvell's "The Garden"

Today August's waning moon is in the movable, fiery and exceedingly barren sign, Aries. Very, very early Thursday morning it will enter the fixed, dry and earthy sign, Taurus. Friday morning near 11 o'clock, fourth lunar quarter will begin and before dawn Saturday morning August's rapidly decreasing moon will enter the flexed, airy sign, Gemini. Monday morning about seven a.m., it will enter the movable, watery and very fruitful sign, Cancer.

Mrs. Swingle's barren and airy sign, Gemini. Monday morning about seven a.m., it will enter the movable, watery and very fruitful sign, Cancer.

It is high time we sowed seeds of biennials, such as Canterbury Bells, Sweet William, foxgloves, lunaria, etc. Also, seeds of perennials, as delphiniums, platycodon, regal lilies, etc. Sow seeds of platycodon where you wish them to grow permanently. They have long tap roots and are difficult to transplant when grown to any size. Also, begin now to root slips of house plants that have been in shady spots in your garden or on a partially-shady porch all summer. For best winter bloom, these must be good size plants and moved inside before your furnace is on. It's too great a shock to take garden-grown plants from the cool outside of autumn into our warm, heated homes. Do this gradually and you'll lose fewer plants in the procedure.

Our picture today is of Halli-Lycorus squamiger in Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Seacrest's garden, 2750 Woodcrest. Quite a scientific name for so beautiful and fragile a flower. I like to call them by a commoner and very appropriate name—Magic Lilies. Some call them Resurrection Lilies. Perhaps you have another equally descriptive name for these summer-blooming bulbs that one may plant in late fall or very early spring in the open garden in full sun, preferably.

Magic Lilies (Halli-Lycorus squamiger) do not, however, belong to the lily family. They belong to the amaryllis family. There are over 70 widely distributed genera of perennial herbs having bulbous or fibrous roots or rhizomes, usually bisexual flowers with six-part perianth in the amaryllis family. This family furnishes many choice ornamental subjects as well as medicinal products and fiber and are native to South Africa. The flowers of many amaryllis are large and lily-like and have been grown in pots for generations as house plants in our northern and midwestern climates, while in milder climates, our southern gulf states, Bermuda, West Indies, etc., they are planted out in the open garden.

Magic Lilies are perennials that send up strap-like leaves almost exactly like the leaves of pot-grown amaryllis in the early spring when tulips and other spring bulbs are in bloom. But no buds nor flowers appear in the springtime. Soon this luxuriant foliage matures and dies down as does tulip foliage, etc., and unless you mark the spot, you'll forget just where they are. Then along in August you'll walk into your garden one early morning and there will be the flower stalks a foot or so high as if by magic! In another day or so they'll come into bloom. Lovely pink orchid blooms on a tall solid peduncle or scape. Is it small wonder so many affectionately call them Magic Lilies?

Fairy Lilies, another summer-blooming bulb, also belong to the amaryllis family but are not hardy in our climate. You may call them Zephyr Lilies. Their scientific name is Zephyranthes (atamisco). Perhaps we can have a picture of Fairy Lilies for you next week.

So until another day—

STAN DELAPLANE'S

POSTCARD

When I was 10 years going on 11, I assumed that one grew up. Year by year and that was that. Ah, well, live and learn.

A budgie has come to my house to stay. This is no product of my suppressed desires. It appears when a 10-year-old girl becomes 11, she must have a budgie.

"Everybody at school has got a budgie!" That is what I hear. And I cannot abide logic. We have a budgie. Ten goes into 11 twice.

A budgie is a bird. On birthdays, we must attend Mr. Al Williams' emporium of tortillas and such Mexican fodder. The Papagayo Room in San Francisco is loaded with birds, papagayo being the Mexican word for parrot. The room is loaded with parrots, macaws and budgies.

Immediately following this orgy of cake and candle blowing, nothing must do but we should off to the budgie store.

Our budgie is a delicate shade of blue. He lives in a golden cage. He eats high quality seed and has his paper changed daily. If I were not a modest man, I would tell you what column he seems to prefer.

Along with our budgie goes a book. The book says my budgie is really a "budgerigar" or an Australian shell parakeet. The name, says the book, is derived from a bush word "betcherry-gan." Meaning "beautiful bird."

This is a large background for one small bird. But our bird handles it well except for a slightly superior air toward the sparrows outside the window.

Budgies must be treated with unusual care. They are subject to colds, fits, sore eyes, long claws and egg binding. They have more life but the publisher of my book was subject to book binding. My book is bound with two sets of pages 22 and 23. No sets of 19, 20 and 21.

These missing pages give other ailments of the budgie. Since they are not included in my mis-bound book, my budgie will have to get along without them.

The problem with budgies, I gather from my book, is not so much with the bird. It is with the owner.

A budgie must be taken from its cage and talked to. Otherwise it gets sulky. In fact, the more I examine the budgie and its ailments, the more it reminds me of a rewrite man. Also usually subject to sore eyes, colds and a sulky attitude.

It is rather unusual for a man of my age to start off with the combination Mexican plate. And wind up with 11-year-old enthusiasm for a powder-blue sulking bird. But that is the way of life.

It is not without a silver lining of new knowledge. Consider how much I am like a budgie, including the blue complexion, especially under the eyes.

"In giving the budgie liberty and consideration, it is for us to go to extremes," says the budgie book. (I knew a city editor who talked like that. But that is not the story right now.)

"Such as allowing the pet to eat or drink anything. Pet owners have been known to give their birds coffee, tea, milk, and even beer or whisky.

"This is definitely a risky thing to do. It is better to keep a bird on a plain, yet wholesome diet, as recommended under 'Feeding.'"

There you have the story of the budgie. There you have the story of my life. People are constantly nagging at me to go on a plain and wholesome diet. To give up coffee, tea and even beer and whisky.

The budgie book says if you do all this, the bird will learn to talk. He will not be troubled with sore eyes or colds or other budgie troubles.

No pet can be a greater source of delight and amusement. Contrary to general belief, a single tamed budgie does not get lonely.

Well, if you will pardon a man who is close akin to a budgie, the dickens you say. If you will pardon me, a tame budgie and a tame rewrite man do get lonely. Mighty lonely, Mr. Budgie Writer.

I feel awfully sorry for all the budgies raised by budgie book writers. Written obviously by a man who has never suffered sore eyes or colds. Or the need for a nip of the Irish when fall is in the air and everybody demands that you talk. In short takes.

My budgie need never talk. When he has sore eyes, I will sympathize. I am for a budgie that sings, anyway. A budgie that sulks. Singing and bragging in the taverns.

In Two Test Cases

Lost in the shuffle in last Tuesday's election was the fact that in the matter of government on the local level two Nebraska communities—Grand Island and Chadron—expressed themselves on retaining the city manager form of government or returning to the mayor-council form.

Grand Island experienced a rather spirited campaign in the effort to toss its city manager system out and to restore the mayor-council organization which had preceded it. But Grand Island decided it would retain the city manager system, and while the margin by which it reached its decision was not too impressive, yet the vote in light of the discussion which had preceded it, could be counted decisively.

In Chadron the result was even more emphatic. Contrary to the pattern set in much of the state, there was enough interest at Chadron to bring out an unusually heavy vote, and there the city manager plan found sufficient favor that the voters plunked it down for its retention by almost two to one.

On the local level, one of the most difficult present-day questions relates to city government. We always have felt that it was not solely, the mechanics of city government that insured results. The men administering it were no less important. But his growing experience in many sections suggests that more and more up-and-coming cities are turning towards the city manager plan. Obviously unless a highly qualified, capable administration is placed in charge, no city manager form of government will succeed. But when those qualifications become available to the people of a community, there is some sense in the conclusion that the city manager form is the answer to present-day governmental needs of the American city.

Flowers Of Spring

Two of the sprightliest lines in one of the old favorite Gilbert and Sullivan light operas run something like this:

"The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, Have nothing to do with the case!"

Boy, how De Wolf Hopper could make those lines stick in memory a long time when he pranced across a stage in a Gilbert and Sullivan revival!

A party which in 1952 campaigned intensively on the issue of balancing the budget has just requested a Republican-controlled Congress to increase the national debt limit from $275 billions to $290 billions. There were no strings attached to that requested increase. Up jumped treasury watchdog Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, a conservative southern Democrat, to protest. And out of the discussion of increasing the national debt by $15 billions came a compromise by which Congress approved a temporary $6 billion increase effective only until next June 30,

Of Men And Things

When this was written, House and Senate conferees were engaged in ironing out existing differences between the two branches of government in the hope of reaching agreement within a few hours on the Eisenhower farm program. Continued downward drifts in the prices for eggs, poultry, and other items of agricultural concern strangely may have blotted out to some extent general recognition in the rural areas of this country that it is facing a highly important period of transition. What is taking place is of great historical importance. The farmer has experienced the most prosperous era he has ever known. What is ahead for him?

There could be a touch of irony in these recent months, particularly if the observation of a capable, experienced Washington observer is borne out by future developments. He suggested that in this adjustment to a new farm program based upon the system of flexible price supports, the American wheat grower will discover he was hardest hit. If that is true—and it will not take more than a year or two for the Nebraska wheat grower to find out, if it takes that long—then between 40,000 or 50,000 farm families in what is now called a one-party state are due to get it in the neck. But directly to the south, a good neighbor, Kansas, occupies a more vulnerable position. Kansas is the greatest wheat-growing state in the Union. It rarely produces fewer than 150 million bushels of wheat annually. In 1952 a record-breaking harvest of 308 million bushels, an approximate 40 per cent of America's domestic needs, set an all-time high mark for a state where wheat is the principal crop and where diversification, perhaps, has been developed less than in any other state in the Union. Year after year Kansas stands at the top as the chief wheat-producing state in the country. Year after year Kansas votes Republican, straying only from the path when farm distress arouses its political anger.

Now, Rep. Clifford Hope, of Kansas, is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. He and his committee associates held extensive hearings in advance of this 83rd session of Congress. They traveled thousands of miles, took voluminous testimony, and while that testimony reflected a lack of agreement among farm people with reference to a farm program, the committee was impressed that the clearest note, the dominant note to which it listened was the feeling among farmers that price supports based upon 90 per cent of parity represented the sentiment of the greatest single farm bloc. Mr. Hope has not been enthusiastic for the Benson program of flexible price supports. The general understanding is that he was opposed to the Benson plan.

This writer served on a commission of which Mr. Hope was a member. He has the highest regard for the Kansan, who is one of the better legislators in the lower house of Congress, thorough in his work, scholarly, and most considerate of all people. Now, if it turns out that the wheat farmer is the hardest hit of all in this new farm program, it is indeed ironic that a man who served agriculture as faithfully as Cliff Hope finds himself the victim of his own party's policy. The wheat grower finds himself caught between two prongs. The support price for wheat is cut. At the same time, the wheat grower, if he votes for the program administered by Secretary Benson, finds himself confronted with the necessity of gulping down two drastic reductions in acreage in a 24-month period. A year ago he took a cut averaging 18 per cent nationwide (it was 20 per cent in Nebraska) and again this year, looking ahead to 1955, he faces a 12 per cent cut in acreage. So he not only knows that the price support prop has been kicked out from under him to some degree, but that the number of acres he can plant if he joins up in the program has been slashed severely, approximately a third in two years. A Lancaster County farmer told us that on the 640 acres he owns in this county, his 1955 allotment permitted him to plant just 65 acres to wheat.

There is some basis for suggesting that the recent wheat referendum in this state was a sharp, rising voiced protest.

Wheat Growers Hit Hardest

Not Solely Lower Prices

when the debt ceiling again will drop to $275 billions.

Maybe.

If in the meantime government spending has been of such a nature as to force the Eisenhower administration to continue to resort to deficit spending—meaning that which Uncle Sam dishes out exceeds that which Uncle Sam takes in—then the so-called wise compromise rigged up by Byrd could result in only one thing. With the debt limit dropping back to $275 billions on June 30—if Uncle Sam actually owed more than $275 billions next June 30—by gosh, then the old codger will have spent beyond his debt limit!

So what?

Having walked up the hill, if the outstanding debt come June 30 next is in excess of $275 billions, then the same wise, courageous Senate including Brother Byrd, will march right back down again, no doubt wiser and perhaps sadder.

If there is any moral to be drawn, it is that when it comes to a balanced budget, with the implication that the next step is towards reduction in the national debt, then a party should know what it is doing before it tosses out a bunch of promises in breezy spirit. One thing which Ike has discovered since moving into the White House is that there's many a slip twixt cup and lip.

Fisherman's Code

For some reason or other, the heat perhaps, Iowa's fishermen have lost control of their story telling. Things have gotten into such a bad state, they say, that some of the most stable liars were found to be so confused that they actually were under-rating their catches.

But we are glad to report that the Iowa Conservation Commission has stepped in to bring order out of confusion, intending to get the stories back on a basis of consistent falsification. It has issued an official weight and measurement scale which one can refer to as a true point from which to begin the exaggeration.

Henceforth in Iowa a 5-pound channel cat will have to be 23 inches long, a 1½ pounder, 16½ inches, and a 10-pounder 29 inches. Also 24½-inch northern pike will have to weigh 3.25 pounds while a 10-pound northern will have to measure out 35 inches. And a half-pound walleye must be 12 inches long and a seven-pounder must measure 28 inches. The commission also suggests that the listerize memorize the scale. It will help him to appreciate the quality of the teller's imagination.

The Unfaithful

Congress ought to pass a law forbidding domestic reading of foreign periodicals, not that they might subvert patriotic political thinking, but that they raise a disturbing question of who owns what in this world. Take London Punch, for instance. As one leafs its pages, the eye encounters one advertisement after another of concerns presumed to be strictly American, talking British and living at addresses which give no hint that they ever heard of places like Detroit or Cleveland or New York.

Obviously the British believe they own the concerns which we have always considered as ours. The situation raises the troubling question, are we dominating British business or are they dominating us, or are we so tied together that there is no real distinction? Nationalism cannot flourish under such disquieting suggestions and misplaced loyalty to presumed home institutions can lead the individual citizens of the involved countries into all sorts of ill will.

The New West

Who says the West isn't turning out its share of rugged he-men, a fair enough counterpart of those rootin', tootin', two-gun shootin' muscle-men of yesteryear's sagebrush sagas? With Colorado Springs and Monte Vista in the San Luis Valley holding rodeos simultaneously, many of the top performers are managing to take part in both by commuting the 150 miles daily between afternoon and evening shows. Maybe the boys aren't getting saddle sore, exactly, but our guess is that they may be a little Cadillac-collared before rodeo season is over.

President Prepares To 'Make Best' Of Curtis

WASHINGTON — The voters went wrong in two primaries last week, one in each party, from the point of view of national campaign managers.

The Eisenhower administration preferred Gov. Robert Crosby for one of the Senate vacancies in Nebraska, but Nebraskans named Rep. Carl T. Curtis from the conservative-isolationist wing of the state GOP.

Democrats here frankly did their best to help state Rep. Claude Burtshaw, a political science professor of Ricks College, win their Senate nomination in Idaho. Instead, Idaho Democrats chose former Sen. Glen Taylor, the "singing cowboy" who was the candidate for vice president with Henry Wallace on the Progressive ticket in 1948.

The White House will make the best of Rep. Curtis as they have done with a similar type, Joseph T. Meek, the Republican nominee against Sen. Paul Douglas in Illinois. Meek supported the Bricker amendment, praised Sen. McCarthy and campaigned as a "no label" Republican. However, running against a strong incumbent, he needs the Eisenhower coattails and Eisenhower needs his seat.

So Meek wrote the President a letter which reliable sources say was sent back once to him by the White House for a little re-writing along certain suggested lines. It finally arrived with a pledge of "loyalties and support" and the President replied with a hearty "welcome to Washington on Jan. 3." The President will also visit the Illinois State Fair this month.

Rep. Curtis, who has been in the House since 1940, comes from what is practically a one-party state, so possibly he can afford to be as independent of the President as he has been during his career on the Ways and Means Committee. It is believed that Nebraska is less solid than usual this

WASHINGTON—It was a cool June Saturday in Washington. Joe Farrington, longtime Hawaiian delegate to the Congress of the United States, came into his office and announced to his staff: "It's too nice a day to answer mail. Go on out and enjoy yourselves. I'll be busy talking to congressmen, and I won't need you."

Then patiently he went the rounds of seven members of the House Rules Committee. He was trying to persuade them to help fulfill his life's greatest ambition—making Hawaii the 49th state of the Union.

The seven members of the rules committee held the key to Hawaiian statehood. For the statehood bill was bottled up in that committee, waiting a joint conference with the Senate. It had been bottled up for months, all because the Republican leadership didn't want the bill out.

So Joe Farrington plodded from office to office trying to persuade key members of the rules committee to permit Hawaiian statehood to come up for action. And having spent all Saturday morning calling on congressmen, Joe Farrington came back to his office after lunch, sat down at his desk, tired and discouraged, and quietly passed away.

Earlier that winter, Mrs. Farrington, knowing Joe had a weak heart and a burning ambition, had told friends: "If Joe doesn't get statehood this session, I'm afraid it will kill him."

Two months passed. In the interim, Mrs. Farrington was overwhelmingly elected by Hawaiians to fill her husband's shoes and came back to Washington for the closing days of Congress.

She knew that the statehood bill was deadlocked, perhaps hopelessly, first because the Republicans had broken their pledge of admitting both Alaska and Hawaii as states simultaneously; second because the Democrats refused to act on Hawaiian statehood unless Alaska got equal treatment; also she knew that Eisenhower was flatly opposed to Alaska.

But finally she knew that nothing could better serve as a memorial to her dead husband than action on Hawaii now. So she went to see President Eisenhower.

He was most cordial. But among other things he said:

"I am just opposed to having a little group of people down in the southern end of Alaska controlling the rest of a vast area that is so important to our defense."

"I know that you as a military commander are accustomed to figuring long-range objectives," countered Mrs. Farrington. "And you plan your tactics step-by-step to reach that objective."

"But," she interrupted herself, "imagine my telling you, the President, what to do?"

"You go right ahead," prompted the President.

"Well, did you ever figure," said Mrs. Farrington, "that a state can set aside military reservations, and some of the northern parts of Alaska might be set aside as military reservations for defense purposes? We had some experience with military government in Hawaii during the war, and it's sometimes easier for a state to enact laws to defend itself than a territory."

Mrs. Farrington went on to plead for both Alaskan and Hawaiian statehood, knowing that they must be tied together to get them through Congress.

"All I want you to do," she concluded, "is to tell Speaker Joe Martin and Charlie Halleck that they are to let the statehood bill out of the rules committee so we can vote on it."

Finally Eisenhower asked her to outline the facts she had given him to his chief liaison man with Congress, Gen. Jerry Persons. This she did. And since Persons didn't take any notes, and since she was afraid he would forget some of the legal points she made regarding ways and means of setting up military reservations for Pacific defense, Mrs. Farrington got a lawyer to draw up a careful memorandum over the week and delivered it to the White House late Sunday evening.

She wanted the President to be prepared when he sat down with Speaker Martin and Halleck for their strategy conference Monday morning.

Mrs. Farrington had been with her husband in Washington a long time. She knew how easy it is to pass the buck. She knew how the White House blames congressional leaders, and how Republican leaders blame the Democrats—and vice versa.

She also knew that Speaker Martin blamed ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn for bottling up Hawaiian statehood, so she went to see both of them.

Martin at first was adamant. He said it was too late in the evening, that the rules committee wasn't going to meet anymore.

"The committee can't meet just to vote on one bill," he said when Mrs. Farrington asked that it be called to act on Hawaiian statehood. "Every other congressman with a bill in the rules committee would be clamoring to have his taken up, too."

Ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn was a bit more hopeful. He turned his Texas charm on Mrs. Farrington, and she turned her feminine charm on him.

He argued that he was not leading the Congress. She argued that all the Democrats listened to him, and quite a few Republicans. Finally she got a promise that if she could switch some votes on the rules committee and get the Hawaiian bill unbottled, he wouldn't oppose her.

Mrs. Farrington is still wearing out shoe-leather on Capitol corridors, still using her charm on callous congressional leaders. She knows she may not get anywhere. She knows that only a few price-less days, even hours, remain before Congress adjourns. But she is still trying desperately to continue where her husband left off when he came back to his office after interviewing members of the rules committee, sat down at his desk, tired and discouraged, and quietly joined his Maker.

It finally arrived with a pledge of "loyalties and support" and the President replied with a hearty "welcome to Washington on Jan. 3." The President will also visit the Illinois State Fair this month.

Rep. Curtis, who has been in the House since 1940, comes from what is practically a one-party state, so possibly he can afford to be as independent of the President as he has been during his career on the Ways and Means Committee. It is believed that Nebraska is less solid than usual this year because of slipping farm prices, but it would have to slide a long way really to endanger Curtis and his running mates.

The more liberal Republicans of Nebraska put their man in the other vacancy: Rep. Roman Hruska. Thus the situation will be, from the White House point of view, about what it was when the late Senators Butler and Griswold, both of whom died this year, occupied the two seats.

Democratic National Chairman Mitchell is debating what, if anything, he ought to say about the Taylor candidacy. He had high hopes of the nomination and election of Burtshaw, who lost to incumbent Republican Sen. Dworshak in 1950 by only 7,500 votes. Now it is expected that many Idaho Democrats will stay home.

With his progressive party history, Taylor is more to the Democrats than somebody they don't think much of. That party was Communist-dominated and his Democratic candidacy is a symbol of what Democrats are fighting hard against, which is the McCarthy charge of treason.

Taylor will get neither help nor money from Washington. Yet it is by no means certain, according to political scouts of both parties, that he won't be back.

According to a Republican who watched him in the primary, he remains a remarkably adroit campaigner in the small towns and rural areas. This man predicted Taylor's nomination and he is not laying any bets on Dworshak. In the end, he thinks the Burtshaw Democrats will hold their noses and vote for Taylor.

Also, Idaho Republicans are split between President Eisenhower's backers and admirers of Sen. McCarthy. This kind of split will probably not be narrowed by the Senate census hearings and eventual outcome.

Garden Glances With The Moon

How vainly men themselves amaze
To win the palm, the oak, or bays;
And their incessant labors see
Crowned from some single herb or tree
Whose short and narrow-verged shade
Does prudently their toils upbraid;
While all flowers and all trees do close
To weave the garlands of repose.

Fair Quiet, have I found thee here,
And Innocence, thy sister dear?
Mistaken long, I sought you then
In busy companies of men.
Your sacred plants, if here below,
Only among the plants will grow:
Society is all but rude
To this delicious solitude.

Meanwhile, the mind, from pleasure less,
Withdraws into its happiness;
The mind, that ocean where each kind
Does straight its own resemblance find:
Yet it creates, transcending these,
Far other worlds and other seas
Annihilating all that's made
To a green thought in a green shade.

Magic Lilies are perennials that send up strap-like leaves almost exactly like the leaves of pot-grown amaryllis in the early spring when tulips and other spring bulbs are in bloom. But no buds nor flowers appear in the springtime. Soon this luxuriant foliage matures and dies down as does tulip foliage, etc., and unless you mark the spot, you'll forget just where they are. Then along in August you'll walk into your garden one early morning and there will be the flower stalks a foot or so high as if by magic! In another day or so they'll come into bloom. A budgie is a bird. On birthdays, we must attend Mr. Al Williams' emporium of tortillas and such Mexican fodder. The Papagayo Room in San Francisco is loaded with birds, papagayo being the Mexican word for parrot. The room is loaded with parrots, macaws and budgies.

It is rather unusual for a man of my age to start off with the combination Mexican plate. And wind up with 11-year-old enthusiasm for a powder-blue sulking bird. But that is the way of life.

It is not without a silver lining of new knowledge. Consider how much I am like a budgie. Including the blue complexion, especially under the eyes.

In giving the budgie liberty and consideration, it is folly to go to extremes. In fact, the budgie book, if I knew a city editor who talked like that. But that is not the story right now.

Such as allowing the pet to eat or drink anything. Pet owners have been known to give their birds coffee, tea, milk, and even beer or whisky.

★
"This is definitely a risky thing to do. It is better to keep a bird on a plain, yet wholesome diet, as recommended under 'Feeding'."

There you have the story of the budgie. There you have the story of my life. People are constantly nagging at me to go on a plain and wholesome diet. To give up coffee, tea and even beer and whisky.

★
The budgie book says if you do all this, the bird will learn to talk. He will not be troubled with sore eyes or colds or other budgie troubles.

★
"No pet can be a greater source of delight and amusement. Contrary to general belief, a sin-

Well, if you will pardon a man who is close akin to a budgie, the dickens you say. If you will pardon me, a tame budgie and a tame rewrite man do get lonely. Mighty lonely, Mr. Budgie Writer.

★
I feel awfully sorry for all the budgies raised by budgie book writing. Written obviously by a man who has never suffered sore eyes or colds. Or the need for a nip of the Irish when fall is in the air and everybody demands that you talk. In short takes.

★

Ike's Farm Program Near Final Victory

Compromise Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's long battle for a flexible farm price support program and broad authority to dispose of multibillion-dollar government surpluses was near victory Monday.

Eight senators and five House members ended four days of closed-door legislative horse trading by agreeing on a compromise omnibus farm bill.

Included was the key administration demand that dairy price supports be retained at the reduced level of 75 per cent of parity ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Benson April 1.

House conferees fought in vain for an increase in butter, cheese and milk price props to 80 per cent of parity on Sept. 1, as voted by that body.

'Couldn't Get It'

When the compromise finally was announced by Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) and Rep. Hope (R-Kan.), chairmen of the Senate and House Agriculture committees, Hope was asked if the lower dairy supports resulted from White House pressure.

"No," he replied. "We receded because we couldn't get it."

Asked about the over-all character of the compromise bill, Hope said:

"It could have been better and it could have been worse."

The adjusted measure may be brought before both the House and Senate for final approval Tuesday.

Acceptance in both chambers sends the controversial election-year measure to the White House containing most, but not all of the features asked by the President—plus a few he did not want.

One major request was not involved in the long conference because both the House and Senate voted for flexible price supports of 82½ to 90 per cent of parity on cotton, wheat, corn, peanuts and rice.

Parity is legally computed price intended to give farm products fair value in terms of farm costs. Initially the President and Benson had asked a range of 75 to 90 per cent on supports for these five crops, classed by law as "basic."

Democrats Speak At REA Meeting

Several REAs Withdraw From Association, Form Own Group

Creation of a second organization of rural public power districts, composed of associations withdrawing from the Nebraska Rural Electric Association, was disclosed here Monday.

The new group will be known as the Rural Power Association.

Lester Trussell, manager of the Norris Public Power District of Beatrice, which has pulled out of the old association, said the new group will have headquarters at Columbus.

W. W. Schutz, manager of Cornhusker Public Power District of Columbus, will be secretary of the new group.

At least six other districts were reported ready to join the new association. One report was that 18 districts finally would withdraw from the present association, which had 34 member districts.

But the 18 districts reported ready to withdraw represent about 80 per cent of the rural electric customers in the state, according to Schutz.

Trussell said the old association "did not properly represent us." He said the districts did not have "adequate say-so" in running the association.

Dale Earlewine of Grant, president of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association, expressed doubt that the new association would become active.

of the NREA, praised Lawrence for his interest in the public power program saying that he was carrying on the tradition started by Theodore Roosevelt and George Norris.

Clema Supported

In resolution adopted by the group, a vote of confidence was given to Clema for his efforts in trying to keep power costs from going up. They went on record stating that Clema has followed the policies as set forth by the executive committee.

Clema, a few months ago, was attacked by some individuals and groups who claimed he had not followed the stated policies of the NREA.

In another resolution, the NREA stated it was in favor of Grand Island as an additional distribution center for the Nebraska Public Power System.

A 12 million dollar investment would take power from Missouri Basin dams into Grand Island, which is the approximate load center for irrigation requirements. This gives the project a conservation and reclamation purpose. The project would be similar to that asked for Belden as a delivery point from Gavins Point Dam.

Congress Thanked

They expressed appreciation to the members of Congress who voted in favor of the appropriation for the Gavins Point-Belden transmission line and for the start of the Gleno Dam project.

NREA members stated they favored "broad" interpretation of the preference clause which states the public bodies have the first right for any publicly produced power.

They requested the cooperation of other agencies interested in the production of electric power by use of atomic energy.

Sumner Burnham, president of the Chimney Rock Public Power District, of Bayard, was elected treasurer and a member of the executive committee.

Ray Lowery of Oaks, director of the South-Central Membership Association at Nelson, was elected chairman of Region 2, the central Nebraska group, and a member of the executive committee.

Man Fined $100; Attacked Woman

John Stewart, 26, of Greenwood, was fined $100 in Lancaster County Court after he was found guilty of assault and battery against a Greenwood woman.

The woman testified she was assaulted by Stewart, who was wearing a handkerchief over his face, as she went from her farm home to a mail box about a quarter-mile away.

She said he had grabbed her by the throat and was attempting to pull her to the ground before she was able to break loose and flee. The incident occurred July 21. Stewart was given jail credit of 21 days on his fine.

Demos Hold Harmonious, Confidential Gatherings

Chairman To Be Named Sept. 2

OMAHA (AP)—Unity and harmony appeared to be the watchwords as Nebraska Democrats hatched up their galluses for the fall campaign.

These words were used to describe meetings held Sunday and Monday in Omaha as preliminary to the task of picking a new state chairman at Hastings Sept. 2 and getting the campaign under way.

About 20 national candidates and members of the state advisory committee were present Sunday at a picnic gathering staged by National Committeeman Bernard Boyle. Also present was William Ritchie, the party's nominee for governor, who called Monday's meeting.

No Friction

adding that he didn't expect any as the Democrats buckle down to the job of campaigning in the fall election.

Ritchie said the subjects discussed were confidential, but discussion of a possible state chairman succeeding William Meier of Minden had been anticipated at the meetings. Meier, candidate for the short-term Senate nomination, is stepping down.

Boyle said Monday that the party's campaign organization would not be completed until the Hastings meeting, when a new chairman will be selected to work with the executive committee in directing the campaign.

The names of Frank Reed of Venus, Paul Busch of Howells, Willard Townsend of Lincoln, Charles Knowles of Omaha, Leon Samuelson of Franklin and Henry Ley of Wayne have come into the discussion for the state chairmanship, but their availability has not been determined save in the case of Knowles, who is a candidate for the post.

Francis Robinson of Ashland, who had been suggested for the post, said he "could not accept it if it were offered to me."

Observers had watched these meetings for signs of a rift because during the primary campaign Ritchie had accused Boyle of favoring P. J. Heaton of Sidney, who Ritchie defeated for the gubernatorial nomination.

Boyle maintained, however, that he would give his full and active support to whomever the party nominated, and he was among the first to congratulate Ritchie upon his nomination at the polls Tuesday.

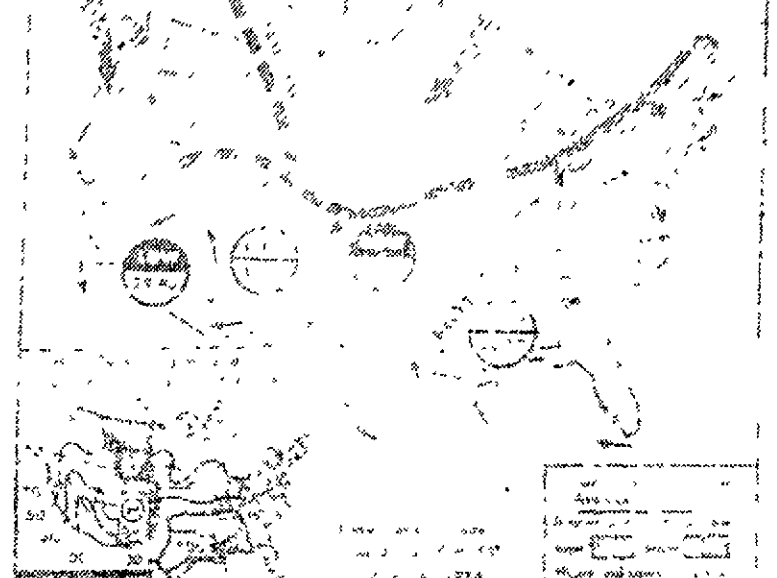

Reported among those in attendance at the gathering were James F. Green of Omaha, candidate for the four-year Senate term; Keith Neville, candidate for the six-year term; Ritchie, Frank Morrison of McCook, Ernest Luther of Hooper and Carleton Laird of Scottsbluff, candidates for Congress.

Cheaper Corn For Feeders Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Robert Harrison (R-Neb.) has expressed hope that the Senate would squeeze into its program a House-passed bill which would allow cattle feeders to purchase corn from the Commodity Credit Corp. at 10 percent above support price.

The Department of Agriculture suggested the bill, Harrison said, "after hearings on my bill" which would have authorized the CCC to waive the payment of interest on corn sold for feeding purposes.

Harrison said the department objected "to certain parts of my bill."

The bill, as passed by the House, would result in cheaper corn for the feeders, he said. Under the bill feeders would save as much as 19 cents a bushel through elimination of payments for handling, storage and interest on CCC loans.

Demos Hold Harmonious, Confidential Gatherings Chairman To Be Named Sept. 2

OMAHA (P)—Unity and harmony appeared to be the watchwords as Nebraska Democrats hatched up their galluses for the fall campaign.

These words were used to describe meetings held Sunday and Monday in Omaha as preliminaries to the task of picking a new state chairman at Hastings Sept. 2 and getting the campaign under way.

About 20 national candidates and members of the state advisory committee were present Sunday at a picnic gathering staged by National Committeeman Bernard Boyle. Also present was William Ritchie, the party's nominee for governor, who called Monday's meeting.

No Friction
Ritchie described both gatherings as harmonious. Boyle said there was no friction whatsoever.

adding that he didn't expect any as the Democrats buckle down to the job of campaigning in the fall election.

Ritchie said the subjects discussed were confidential, but discussion of a possible state chairman succeeding William Meier of Minden had been anticipated at the meetings. Meier, candidate for the short-term Senate nomination, is stepping down.

Boyle said Monday that the party's campaign organization would not be completed until the Hastings meeting, when a new chairman will be selected to work with the executive committee in directing the campaign.

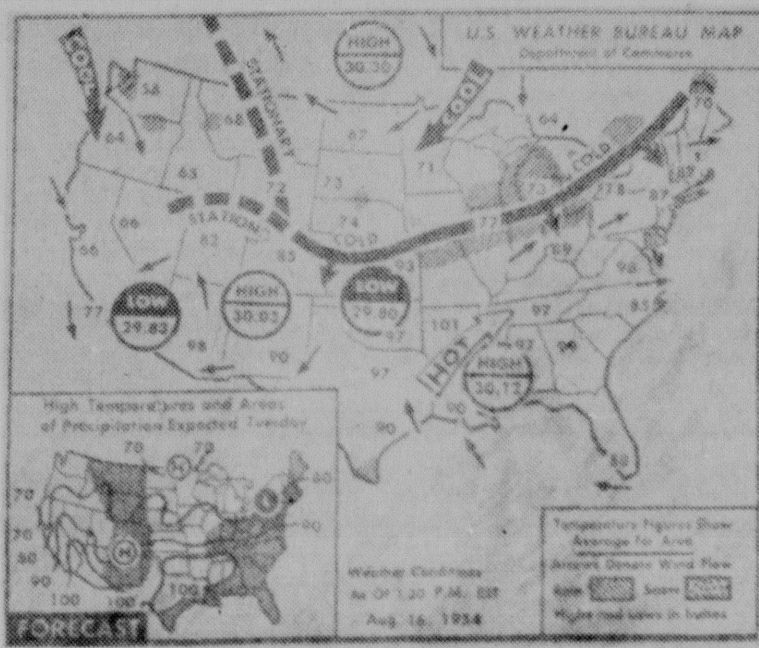

The names of Frank Reed of Venus, Paul Busch of Howells, Willard Townsend of Lincoln, Charles Knowles of Omaha, Leon Samuelson of Franklin and Henry Ley of Wayne have come into the discussion for the state chairmanship, but their availability has not been determined save in the case of Knowles, who is a candidate for the post.

Francis Robinson of Ashland, who had been suggested for the post, said he "could not accept it if it were offered to me."

Observers had watched these meetings for signs of a rift because during the primary campaign Ritchie had accused Boyle of favoring P. J. Heaton of Sidney, who Ritchie defeated for the gubernatorial nomination.

Boyle maintained, however, that he would give his full and active support to whomever the party nominated, and he was among the first to congratulate Ritchie upon his nomination at the polls Tuesday.

Reported among those in attendance at the gathering were James F. Green of Omaha, candidate for the four-year Senate term; Keith Neville, candidate for the six-year term; Ritchie, Frank Morrison of McCook, Ernest Luther of Hooper and Carleton Laird of Scottsbluff, candidates for Congress.

Same Temperatures, More Rain

Scattered showers and thunderstorms are forecast Tuesday along Atlantic seaboard and in Ohio and Tennessee valleys. Widely scattered thunderstorms are due along Gulf coast and thunderstorms along the 'rockies and upper Missouri valley. Fair skies and cooler weather will prevail in northwest Pacific states. It will continue hot in southern states and there will be little change elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map.)

Co-Op Research Topic Of Meeting

New results of research in the field of co-operatives will occupy the attention of delegates to the annual Co-operative Management Conference scheduled here Sept. 30-Oct. 2. Extension Economist Clayton P. Libeau said Monday.

The conference, on the campus of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, is designed to provide basic information for directors and managers of co-ops, Libeau said.

Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the university, will be guest speaker at a luncheon on the opening day of the conference.

Chase Will Leave Bench By Sept. 1

OMAHA (P)—District Judge Jackson B. Chase of Omaha plans to leave the bench about Sept. 1 to start vigorous campaigning for election to Congress.

He is the Republican selection to seek the seat of Rep. Roman Hruska who seeks to step up into the U.S. Senate.

When Judge Chase resigns from the bench Gov. Crosby will name a successor.

Cheaper Corn For Feeders Proposed

WASHINGTON (P)—Rep. Robert Harrison (R-Neb.) has expressed hope that the Senate would squeeze into its program a House-passed bill which would allow cattle feeders to purchase corn from the Commodity Credit Corp. at 10 percent above support price.

The Department of Agriculture suggested the bill, Harrison said, "after hearings on my bill."

Harrison said the department objected "to certain parts of my bill."

The bill, as passed by the House, would result in cheaper corn for the feeders, he said. Under the bill feeders would save as much as 19 cents a bushel through elimination of payments for handling, storage and interest on CCC loans.

Hay Springs Polio Inoculations Near End

4th Area To Receive Mass Shots

HAY SPRINGS, Neb. (U-P) — Dr. Bernard Owen said Monday he thought he was nearing the end of mass gamma globulin inoculations in this northwestern Nebraska town of 1,100 persons.

Although the State Health Department reported enough GG had been sent here for the inoculation of 2,000 persons, Dr. Owen reported that only 400 shots had been given through noon Monday.

He estimated that the last inoculations would be made by Tuesday evening.

The health department designated Hay Springs and the surrounding community as a polio epidemic area after four cases were reported this summer. None of the cases was fatal.

No Paralysis Evident

The latest victim, taken ill about a week ago, was Tommy White, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil White. Dr. Owen said the latest report from Scottsbluff, where Tommy was hospitalized, was that the boy still had a fever but that no paralysis was evident at that time.

Tommy's case touched off the demands for the mass use of gamma globulin. By Thursday of last week, Dr. Owens reported, he had obtained a supply of the drug and was giving shots to Hay Springs children.

Two cases of polio were reported about two and a half weeks ago, he said. One of those victims, Jimmy White, 5 (no relation to Tommy), was back home Monday, apparently recovered. The other case, Eugene Farette, 16, was more serious. Dr. Owen said Farette was still hospitalized at Hot Springs, S. D.

No Panic

The fourth case was reported a month ago, when Raymond Housch, 32, contracted the disease. Housch was home Monday, recovered from the illness.

Dr. Owen said he had seen no panic in the community. He added that fewer persons had asked for gamma globulin shots than he had expected.

Hay Springs is the fourth area in the state to receive mass GG inoculations. The others were Broken Bow, Ansley and Arcadia, closely grouped in central Nebraska.

A large number of shots were given at Hemingford, 43 miles west of Hay Springs, earlier in the summer when four children in the Lee Davies families contracted polio. But inoculations were limited to persons who had direct contact with the victims.

The Alliance area received only 37 of an inch of rain during the month of July and the first two weeks of August.

SEWARD, Neb. (U-P) — The northern Nebraska district of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod Monday re-elected the Rev. Walter E. Homann of Bancroft as president for a sixth straight term. He has held the presidency for 15 years.

The annual report showed the district has a present membership of 31,092, a gain of 1,448 in 1953. The district now stands 17th in membership among the 34 making up the Missouri Synod. Four new congregations were accepted into the district Monday. They were at Verdigre, Bayard, Fremont and Fairfax, S.D. Congregations now total 143.

Water Use Discussions To Continue

CASPER, Wyo. (U-P) — No agreement was reached Monday on a dispute over irrigation water stored in three Wyoming reservoirs and discussions are continuing.

I. J. Matthews, manager of the North Platte district of the Bureau of Reclamation, said representatives from eastern Wyoming and western Nebraska irrigation districts met without reaching a settlement.

The negotiations are aimed at ironing out a dispute over irrigation water stored in the Alcovia, Pathfinder and Seminole reservoirs. The Interior Department ordered 150,000 acre feet of water sold at $2.25 an acre foot for use in eastern Wyoming and western Nebraska irrigation districts.

The Casper-Alcovia irrigation district filed suit in District Court contending the order was illegal and was granted an injunction prohibiting its release.

Since then, attempts have been made to iron out the dispute without legal action under an agreement whereby the water would be repaid out of future allotments.

Represented at the meeting were the Pathfinder Irrigation District of Mitchell, Neb., the Gering-Fort Laramie district of Gering, Neb., the Nebraska Farmers District of Scottsbluff, Neb., the Lingle Water Users and the Hill district of Lingle, and the Casper-Alcovia district.

Dr. Owen said he had seen no panic in the community. "I added that fewer persons had asked for gamma globulin shots than he had expected."

Hay Springs is the fourth area in the state to receive mass GG inoculations. The others were Broken Bow, Ansley and Arcadia, closely grouped in central Nebraska.

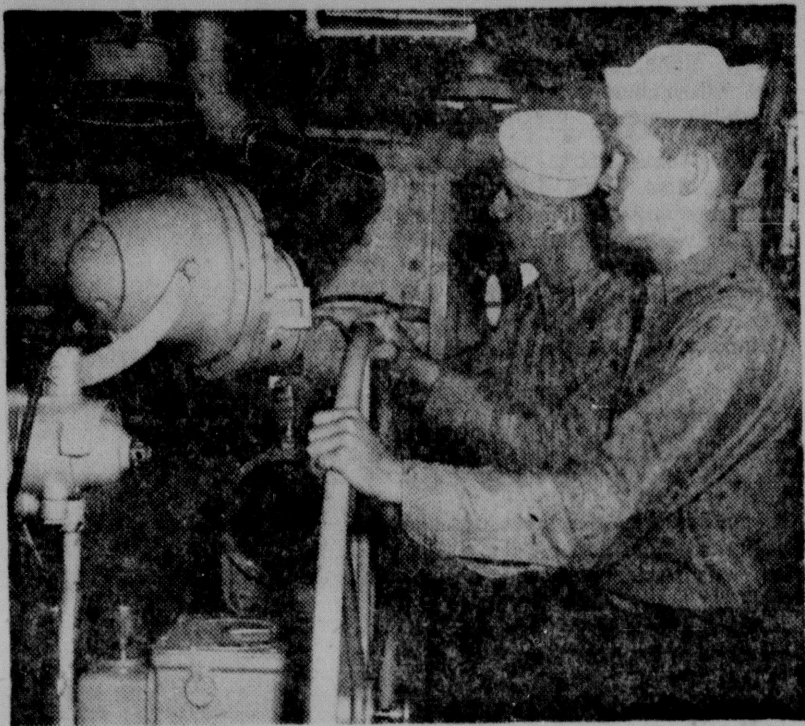

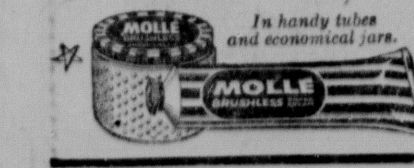

A large number of shots were given at Hemingford, 43 miles west of Hay Springs, earlier in the summer when four children in the Lee Davies families contracted polio. But inoculations were limited to persons who had direct contact with the victims.

The Alliance area received only .37 of an inch of rain during the month of July and the first two weeks of August.

Water Use Discussions To Continue

CASPER, Wyo. (P)—No agreement was reached Monday on a dispute over irrigation water stored in three Wyoming reservoirs and discussions are continuing.

I. J. Matthews, manager of the North Platte district of the Bureau of Reclamation, said representatives from eastern Wyoming and western Nebraska irrigation districts met without reaching a settlement.

The negotiations are aimed at ironing out a dispute over irrigation water stored in the Alcova, Pathfinder and Seminole reservoirs. The Interior Department ordered 150,000 acre feet of water sold at $2.25 an acre foot for use in eastern Wyoming and western Nebraska irrigation districts.

The Casper-Alcova irrigation district filed suit in District Court contending the order was illegal and was granted an injunction prohibiting its release.

Since then, attempts have been made to iron out the dispute without legal action under an agreement whereby the water would be repaid out of future allotments.

Represented at the meeting were the Pathfinder Irrigation District of Mitchell, Neb., the Gering-Fort Laramie district of Gering, Neb.; the Nebraska Farmers District of Scottsbluff, Neb.; the Lingle Water Users and the Hill district of Lingle, and the Casper-Alcova district.

in our 50th year . . . Lincoln's 50,000th Telephone

Mrs. Bruggeman makes the first long distance call on the 50,000th telephone to her mother at York. The ceremony was observed by Lincoln's mayor, and officials of the Chamber of Commerce, Railway Commission and the Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruggeman live in this attractive duplex at 4724 M street. It is representative of the growth and development of our progressive city.

Last Thursday Lincoln's 50,000th telephone was installed at the home of Dale V. Bruggeman at 4724 M Street. By coincidence, the event came during the company's 50th anniversary year.
With the population of Lincoln's metropolitan area standing at about 111,000, there is now nearly one telephone for every two persons on the Lincoln exchange. This mark puts Lincoln among the leaders in this respect among cities across the nation.

And Lincoln enjoys the finest in modern telephone communication. With a few turns of your dial you have instant, direct connection with some 52,000 telephones in this area. Fast, high quality long distance service is assured by direct connection with the national long distance dialing network and the transcontinental long distance toll cable.

The 726 men and women of LT&T who make Lincoln their home pledge their further efforts toward making your telephone service always pleasing and dependable. As such it will continue as a valuable asset to the community in its family life and its business development.

Afternoon Ceremony

MRS. DALE E. WALLEN

Chrysanthemums and gladioli, arranged in pedestal baskets, formed an attractive background for the marriage of Miss Shirley Nadine Underhill, daughter of Mrs. Ray Underhill of Grand Island, and the late Mr. Underhill, to Dale E. Wallen of Palmyra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Wallen, also of Palmyra, which took place on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 15, at Trinity Methodist Church in Grand Island. Only the members of the families and a small group of intimate friends attended the 7:30 o'clock ceremony which was solemnized by the Rev. Alan Justad, minister of Trinity Methodist. Mrs. S. T. Eckert, organist, played the wedding music and also accompanied Miss Jeannine Kilpatrick, the soloist.

Mrs. Ivan Pace was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. Her costume of lace and tulle was in the beige tone and was fashioned with a lace bodice, dotted with rhinestones, a slim faille skirt, and matching jacket. Pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of pink, feathered carnations.

Jack Stillwell of Unadilla served Mr. Wallen as best man, and seating the guests was Ivan Pace.

The bride appeared in a daytime frock of pink tulle. Above a wide skirt the bodice was snugly fitted, and the neckline was contoured with a steel-gray accordion pleated shawl collar. Her corsage was of small roses in the garnet shade, and she carried a Bible covered with off-pink ribbon and topped with carnations and rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother after which Mr. Wallen and his bride left for a honeymoon trip to Lake of the Woods, Canada. For traveling Mrs. Wallen wore a three-piece ensemble of green linen. After Sept. 1 the couple will reside in Unadilla.

Mrs. Wallen is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, where she is a member of Pi Gamma Mu and Theta Alpha Phi, and received her Master's degree in music from the University of Nebraska last January. She has been an instructor in music in the Papillion schools, and last semester was on the Holdrege school faculty. She will be the music instructor in the Bennet schools this year.

Mid-Summer Wedding

MRS. LAUREN HAMANN

Arrangements of white and yellow gladioli, and tall, lighted candles appointed the altar of Faith Lutheran Church for the marriage of Miss Phyllis Heiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Heiser and Lauren Hamann son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamann of Colorado Springs, Colo., which took place Sunday evening, Aug. 1. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Charles H. Born in the presence of 150 guests.

Mrs. Pat Whitcomb and Miss Francy Miller lighted the chancel candles as a prelude of organ music was presented by Mrs. Leon Porter. Mrs. Porter also played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Howard Mattison as she sang "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Miss Marilyn Heiser who was frocked in daffodil yellow net over taffeta. A net stole completed the strapless bodice beneath which the skirt flared into ballerina length. Her headpiece was of matching net and she carried a bouquet of green-tinted carnations. Wearing an identical ensemble in green net and taffeta and carrying yellow carnations was the flower girl, Miss Charlean Born.

Bob Hamann of Lincoln, served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Harold Heiser, brother of the bride, and Simon Lantz.

White lace and nylon tulle over satin fashioned the bride's waltz-length gown. The fitted bodice of lace was designed with a high, turned-down collar of lace and completed by long, fitted sleeves, and the lace motif was repeated in panels to trim the full tulle skirt. A tiara of seed pearls and sequins held her lace-edged veil of illusion, and she carried a pinnafe bouquet of white roses.

Following the reception, held in the church parlors, the couple left for a wedding trip to Yellowstone Park, Wyo., later to reside in Lincoln.

A former student at the University of Nebraska, Mr. Hamann is a graduate of Bradley University, Peoria, Ill.

THEN we heard that Mr. and Mrs. Sidney C. Wright of Glen Cove, Long Island, N. Y., have been spending the past two weeks in Lincoln, the guests of Mrs. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hoffman, and Mr. Wright's mother, Mrs. S. V. Wright. Numerous informal courtesies have been given for

Mr. and Mrs. Wright since their arrival. Both are former students at the University of Nebraska where Mr. Wright is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, and Mrs. Wright of Gamma Phi Delta sorority.

YESTERDAY was Monday—the day that Mrs. Vernon Thompson was a tea hostess at her home when she entertained a small group of guests in pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Caroline Rogers, whose marriage to John Mills will take place on Saturday, Sept. 11. Although the party was for Miss Rogers, who was presented with a hostess gift, there was a surprise for Miss Patrice Hammond, who was included in the guest list and whose marriage to Calvin Lemmon takes place in December—Miss Hammond also was presented with a hostess gift.

SPEAKING of brides-elects—Alpha Xi Delta's Betty Hugh Williams, who is to marry Donald Lee Johnson of Pueblo, Colo., on Sunday, Aug. 22, will be complimented this morning when Mrs. A. B. Whitmer entertains at a coffee at her home. The guest list will include only the feminine members of the family.

On Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Williams will be host and hostess at a buffet supper at their home when their guest list will include the out of town wedding guests.

HEARD some extra nice news about Miss Mary Ellen Stein this morning—Learned that the attractive young lady is to attend St. Mary's School, Fairbault, Minn., this year, and that she will be leaving for Minnesota about mid-September.

Mid-Summer Wedding

ing an identical ensemble in green net and taffeta and carrying yellow carnations was the flower girl, Miss Charlean Born.

Bob Hamann of Lincoln, served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Harold Heiser, brother of the bride, and Simon Lantz.

White lace and nylon tulle over satin fashioned the bride's waltz-length gown. The fitted bodice of lace was designed with a high, turned-down collar of lace and completed by long, fitted sleeves, and the lace motif was repeated in panels to trim the full tulle skirt. A tiara of seed pearls and sequins held her lace-edged veil of illusion, and she carried a pinnafe bouquet of white roses.

Following the reception, held in the church parlors, the couple left for a wedding trip to Yellowstone Park, Wyo., later to reside in Lincoln.

A former student at the University of Nebraska, Mr. Hamann is a graduate of Bradley University, Peoria, Ill.

The wedding is planned for October.

Miss Ohs will be graduated from the Bryan Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in September.

Mr. Thompson is attending Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Afternoon Ceremony

MRS. DALE E. WALLEN

Chrysanthemums and gladioli, arranged in pedestal baskets, formed an attractive background for the marriage of Miss Shirley Nadine Underhill, daughter of Mrs. Ray Underhill of Grand Island, and the late Mr. Underhill, to Dale E. Wallen of Palmyra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Wallen, also of Palmyra, which took place on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 15, at Trinity Methodist Church in Grand Island. Only the members of the families and a small group of intimate friends attended the 7:30 o'clock ceremony which was solemnized by the Rev. Alan Justad, minister of Trinity Methodist. Mrs. S. T. Eckert, organist, played the wedding music and also accompanied Miss Jeannine Kilpatrick, the soloist.

Mrs. Ivan Pace was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. Her costume of ace and faille was in the beige tone and was fashioned with a lace bodice, dotted with rhinestones, a slim faille skirt, and matching jacket. Pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of pink, feathered carnations.

Jack Sullwell of Unadilla served Mr. Wallen as best man, and seating the guests was Ivan Pace.

The bride appeared in a daytime frock of pink acrilon. Above a wide skirt the bodice was snugly fitted, and the neckline was contoured with a steel-gray accordion pleated shawl collar. Her corsage was of small roses in the garnet shade, and she carried a Bible covered with off-pink ribbon and topped with carnations and rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother after which Mr. Wallen and his bride left for a honeymoon trip to Lake of the Woods, Canada. For traveling Mrs. Wallen wore a three-piece ensemble of green linen. After Sept. 1 the couple will reside in Unadilla.

Mrs. Wallen is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, where she is a member of Pi Gamma Mu and Theta Alpha Phi, and received her Master's degree in music from the University of Nebraska last January. She has been an instructor in music in the Papillion schools, and last semester was on the Holdrege school faculty. She will be the music instructor in the Bennet schools this year.

LWCTo Hear Speakers

The officers of the Lincoln Women's Club mental hygiene department have completed a schedule of lectures and programs for the coming year that will feature a group of outstanding Lincoln speakers.

With "The Development of Personal Attitudes towards a more Abundant Life," as the program theme, the lecture series will begin on Oct. 12 with a talk by Mrs. Arthur L. Smith on, "Attitudes toward World Fellowship."

The series, an innovation with the department this year in that it will touch on many different topics contributing towards a more abundant life, also will feature a talk on, "Attitudes toward Local and National Social Problems," by Mrs. Frank Marsh on Nov. 9, and a lecture by the Rev. C. Vin White, minister of First Presbyterian Church, on Dec. 14.

The topic, "Attitudes toward New Citizens," will be presented by Miss Ona Wagner early in January, and the Jan. 25 meeting will include a talk by Mrs. G. Lee Sandritter, the topic to be announced at a later date.

Col. Ervin Wursten, commanding officer at the Lincoln Air Force Base, will address the group on Feb. 8, on the subject, "Attitudes toward Our Country," and on March 8, the department members will participate in an open debate on, "Has Our Personality Grown with our State?" The series will conclude April 12 with a lecture on, "Attitudes toward the Miracle of Spring," by the Rev. Vance Rogers, minister of Trinity Methodist Church.

Mrs. Leo L. Lewellen, department leader, has announced that the fall activities of the group will begin on Sept. 28, with the annual Harvest breakfast to be held at the Lincoln B, PW Club rooms. Also included in the department's social activities will be the annual spring party on March 22, when the members join with the Bible department for a special program.

Assistant leader of the department is Mrs. G. A. Matz, and Mrs. D. E. Meyer is secretary-treasurer. Members of the social committee include Mrs. C. P. May, Miss Regina Ferris and Mrs. John Grinde, and planning the department's project are Mrs. Johnson Beam, Mrs. Charles Bartz and Mrs. H. D. Armstrong.

Mrs. G. Porter Putnam is chairman of the group's membership committee, and reception and door hostesses will be Mrs. R. D. Traver, Mrs. Earl Wagner and Mrs. J. F. Moell. Telephone committee members are Mrs. Mary Lantz, Mrs. T. R. Crawford and Mrs. Flo Feistner.

Better Watch Out--If--

Up to now, it would seem no one has given color much consideration—There have been colors you like, colors you don't like—colors that matched and colors that didn't—and that's about the extent of color education.

But now comes a color specialist and tells us that "color is like love—you have to experience it to understand it—" and that if your husband, for instance, should be particularly fond of red or chartreuse—you'd better watch out. And if the sweet young thing still is tancy free, says Adele Faulkner, Los Angeles color expert, she'd better look into the color tastes of the young man upon whom she has her eye.

"The young girl who's thinking of marrying a man who has a weakness for off-colors such as blue-green or chartreuse is apt to be on the finicky side and not too easy to live with."

Miss Faulkner added that young men who often pick out red colors may have somewhat of a roving eye and be on the philandering side.

"A clever woman," the color expert added, "can turn these natural tastes to her own advantage, particularly when it comes to decorating a home."

Strong background colors, she continued, can be used to "bring out the latent caveman, just as pastels often tend to subdue the slightly over impulsive male."

For example, if you want to wake up an absent-minded husband, Miss Faulkner suggested a coat of red paint on the walls of the breakfast nook.

Miss Faulkner said she found her biggest headache in decorating homes where one member of the family is an introvert and the other an extrovert.

The attractive interior decorator said it isn't always wise to give people the colors they like. Many of the clients she has, Miss Faulkner said, really don't know what colors they like.

She noted: "Clients' color selections usually are a key to their sophistication. The average person leans toward simple, strong colors, whereas the sophisticate goes in for off-beat shades as café au lait peacock blue and sage green."

Even though individuals might have very definite tastes, she added, it's sometimes advisable to steer them away from "favorite" colors and select a more "favorable" one.

Miss Faulkner concluded: "The actual therapeutic value of color has never been fully exploited. I believe there should be much more scientific research done in this field."

"Color is like love—you have to experience it to understand it."

For The First Cool Evening?

Right at the moment it's a little difficult to give cool evening food anything but a wishful thought—but the time is not far distant when the recreant appetites of the summer season will have vanished, and the family larder and menu book must be filled with hot, nourishing and delicious food.

Most of us must keep our eye on the budget as well as our family's food fancies, and we've found what we think will be the answer to both problems—this cauliflower and rice—Serve it with buttered green beans—lettuce and tomato salad—good raisin muffins, and top the whole thing off with chocolate pudding.

Now for the recipe:
2 cups cooked cauliflower
2 cups cooked rice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

1 1/2 cups milk
3/4 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
1/2 cup buttered crumbs
Arrange cauliflower and rice in greased 1-quart casserole.
Melt butter in small saucepan. Stir in flour, salt, and pepper. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly; cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Pour over cauliflower and rice. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350F.) about 20 minutes, or until thoroughly heated and crumbs are browned. Yield: six servings.

Late Word From Paris

While Paris does not decry the atomic influence, Paris does believe that something should be done to maintain romance and sentiment in the atomic age and the streamlined, gadget-minded homes. Paris decorators have rallied to the cause and are offering wicker furniture and pastel colors as an antidote.

One new Paris-designed bedroom is furnished completely in wicker. The lacy wicker bed is shaped like a huge oval basket. The bed cover is a plain lilac color. Above the bed is a baldachin lined with striped cotton in yellow, lilac and turquoise trimmed with black silk cord and ball fringes. The same striped cotton and black ball fringe trimming is used for window curtains.

A half-moon shaped dressing table has a wicker stand and a black glass top. A circular basket-shell chair and a round, low wicker table with black glass-top complete the furniture.

The bedroom has a white tile floor with a circular, high pile black carpet. The walls are pale yellow, decorated with pictures in round frames suspended from the ceiling on black velvet ribbons.

A romantic bedroom allure also can be achieved without changing all the furniture. One bedroom designed by a Parisian artist owes its romantic touch to paint and a few yards of fabric.

The walls in this bedroom are painted white with a pattern of tiny pink hearts looking like dots from a distance. The ceiling is painted pink. The bed is covered with pale grey satin cotton deeply flounced around the sides. Window drapes are pale grey and curtains are fluffy white organdy embroidered in white hearts of different sizes.

It's Better Than Screams

There's a new personal protection device on the market designed particularly for women and girls who have to be out or in their homes alone after dark.

It's an "Escort Alarm" which screams its head off for the girl in danger.

This device, called harmless but "guaranteed effective," is small enough to be carried in the hand, purse or pocket. It looks something like a spectacle case.

The woman in danger has only to press a button on the side of the case to set off a powerful siren which cannot be silenced until it automatically shuts off. The penetrating wail can be heard for blocks.

'Resources More Than Adequate To Meet School Building Needs'

Nebraska has more than adequate resources to take care of its school building needs, in the opinion of the Nebraska Citizens Council.

The council based its conclusions on a comparison of school district indebtedness to the assessed valuation of school districts.

In reaching this conclusion, the council disagrees with findings of the U. S. Office of Education which made a survey of public school plant facilities at the request of Congress.

79.45 Per Cent

The federal agency concluded that Connecticut was most able to provide adequate school plants with an estimated 90.78 per cent of the required resources available.

But the survey indicated Nebraska was one of the most self-sufficient states, with 79.45 per

Tabulation Error Changed Outcome Of Sheriff's Race

ALLIANCE Neb. (AP)—An error of 64 votes almost gave the Republican nomination for Box Butte County sheriff to the wrong man.

The first announcement of the results of the primary indicated Sheriff Fred Sheldahl was the winner.

But on second examination, the county clerk discovered that the second ward returns from Alliance somehow had been placed in the wrong column. Sixty-four votes percent of the resources needed to put its school plants in order.

Nebraska's school plant needs were placed at $137,000,000.

The Citizens Council statement says this implies that $26,000,000 in federal aid would be required in Nebraska to finance the $137,000,000 building program which is needed.

The Citizens Council of which former State Tax Commissioner Robert Armstrong is director, is a private tax research group. It comments some observers believe the federal report is purposely vague in its use of terms in order to justify federal aid to schools.

"Federal aid has been resisted by some educators because they feel that federal funds will have strings tied to them. They feel that school finance and control of local school districts should be as close to home as possible," the council statement adds.

Individual Personal Property Lists, Town Lots, Improvements Drop Most

Individual personal property schedules and town lots and improvements showed the most marked drop in this year's assessment totals, the Nebraska Citizens Council reported Monday.

The only item showing an increase was mineral interests.

When the State board of Equalization concluded its work two weeks ago, the state's total assessed—50 per cent of actual—valuation figure was $3,931,650,000, compared to $3,370,823,000 in 1952.

The comparison by classes, this year with last:

1. Farm lands and improvements, $1,187,121,000 and $1,257,292,000 down 7.2 per cent.

for Matt Berg had been credited to Floyd Gowin, while Gowin's seven votes were given to Berg.

After the error was corrected, Berg had won the nomination, receiving 584 votes to Sheldahl's 549. Gowin ran a slow third with 139 votes.

Mineral interests, $9,221,900 and $11,000 up 19.0 per cent.

Rural non-farm real estate, $7,175,000 and $7,175,000 no change.

2. New classification, so no comparison possible.

3. Town lots and improvements, $803,011,000 and $696,193,000 down 13.3 per cent.

Individual personal property schedules, $1,137,208,000 and $1,019,208,000 down 10.4 per cent.

Business schedules, $177,270,000 and $192,810,000 down 9.1 per cent.

Special schedules, $132,131,000 and $1,277,000 down 9.3 per cent.

Local, $1,011,500,000 and $1,010,520,000 down 0.001 per cent.

New York Monopoly On Series May End

Braves And Indians To Re-Do '48 Go?

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cleveland Indians and the Milwaukee Braves, playing the hottest baseball in the majors, are threatening to break this big city's stranglehold on the World Series.

Not since 1948—six years ago when Cleveland edged these same Braves, then from Boston, 4-2—has there been an autumn classic without one of the three New York teams—Yankees, Dodgers and Giants.

Generally, there have been two. The Yankees have been in the last five series, winning them all. Brooklyn has been in three, the Giants and the Philadelphia Phillies one each.

Now Cleveland, playing at a terrific price to stand off mounting Yankee pressure, is leading the American League by three games. And the Milwaukee Braves, with a tremendous surge, are threatening to steal the National League flag right from under the noses of the Giants and Dodgers.

There seems little to choose in the way of the remaining schedule. The championships will go to those teams able to put together a solid winning streak.

Ya Can't Win!

The Yankees must be getting a bit discouraged trying to close the gap between them and Cleveland. They have a seven-game winning streak going yet Sunday lost a half-game to the pace-setters.

Casey Stengel's athletes have won 50 of their last 66 games. But Cleveland, refusing to fold, has taken 50 of 67.

Manager Al Lopez of the Indians, however, remained super-cautious. "I hope we can get back home from this road trip (Aug. 20 through Sept. 6) in good shape. If we do, I think then we can tell."

The Braves have a 25-6 record since the All-Star Game and have won nine in a row to creep up on the Giants and Dodgers, who thought they had the race all to themselves. The off-and-on Dodgers cut the Giants down to size by sweeping a weekend three-game series.

"New Seasons"

Brooklyn's Manager Walter Alston was not ecstatic, remarking soberly: "The Giants are still on top." The Giants' Leo Durocher said, "It's a new season of 40 games. We've had our hot streak and we can take a bad one. We'll be all right."

In the last 22 games, the Braves have dropped only two decisions, both by one run and one a 13-inning game with Brooklyn.

Here are the pennant races at a glance:

Early Council Vote Sought

On Using County Valuation

By BILL DOBLEK

City Councilman Rees Wilkinson has taken steps to bring to an early vote of the City Council the question of the city's use of county real estate valuations for taxation purposes.

the two sub-divisions."

The Voice of Prophecy radio group will be in Lincoln Tuesday and Wednesday for the Nebraska Conference of the Seventh-Day Adventists.

The group, which is the second largest religious program in the world, will present a live broadcast from the convention hall at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Elder H. M. S. Richards will be the chief speaker. Elder Richards, who has been in radio evangelism for 25 years, has just completed a round-the-world trip.

The King's Heralds Quartet will also appear.

The program has a potential audience of more than four-fifths of the world's population each Sunday as it is broadcast on 856 stations.

It is heard on Radio Ceylon, the world's largest station, 11 times each Sunday. It is also carried on Radio Luxemburg, Europe's largest station.

House Votes 305-2 To Outlaw Red Party

Solons Cite Conspiracy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House voted by a whopping 305-2 margin Monday to outlaw the Communist party, calling it "an instrumentality of a conspiracy to overthrow the government."

The only "no" votes were cast by Representatives Burdick (R-ND) and Multer (D-NY). Both said they are opposed to communism. But Multer said he is against outlawing any political party and Burdick said he felt Congress was treading on dangerous ground "by making unlawful what a man may think."

Nebraska Representative Curtis, Harrison and Miller, all Republicans voted with the majority.

Sped through the House under a suspension of the rules that allowed fast action, the bill also takes away from Red-dominated unions the rights other unions have under labor laws.

No Penalties
It differs from a bill which was shot through the Senate with an 85-0 vote last Thursday in that it carries no penalties for individuals who are active Communists.

The Eisenhower administration opposed the Senate provision for fear it would upset other laws set up for national security and perhaps make propaganda martyrs out of individual Communists.

Senate and House versions must now be reconciled in a conference, with the administration's weight on the side of the House.

Republican congressional leaders with Atty. Gen. Brownell sitting in, agreed on what they wanted during a White House meeting Monday morning.

Rep. Halleck of Indiana, House Republican leader, said Brownell would have preferred no legislation but would not oppose the House bill.

'No' Voters
The House members, like the senators, showed overwhelmingly they wanted to take a vote striking at the Communist party.

Both the "no" voters are lawyers but have little else in common.

Burdick, 75, describes himself as "always independent in politics." Multer, 53, and from Brooklyn, told the House he is a long-time foe of communism, but is also against outlawing any political party.

The bill says the Communist party shall not have any of the rights, privileges and immunities granted to lawful organizations. Nor would the Communists help themselves any by changing their party name, for the bill also lays down the same bar to successors of the present party.

The rights thus removed would include the right of the party to enter candidates for political office.

Lions Back Move Of Blind School

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP)—The Nebraska Lions Club Council, meeting here, endorsed a proposal to move the Nebraska State School for the Blind from Kearney to Kearney.

The endorsement came after addresses by Bob Ramig, North Platte, president of Parent of Blind Children of Nebraska, and Harry Hines, Lincoln, director of state services for the blind.

Ramig's organization proposed the move to Kearney to take advantage of the facilities of Kearney State College and to place the school in a more central location in the state.

The 35 Lions attending the meeting voted to inform the state's clubs of the issues involved in the proposal and of the council's stand.

The meeting was attended by newly-elected and immediate past district governors and by members of the Lions advisory council.

Assessors Given Auto Value Guide

The state tax commissioner Monday mailed to county assessors the guide to valuation of automobiles for tax purposes for next year as approved by the State Board of Equalization.

Valuations have been reduced from last year to correspond with lower sales prices on used cars and to bring them more in line with values placed on other types of taxable property, it was pointed out.

In general, it was said, valuations on cars owned last year will be reduced about 50 per cent this year. The same model car but one year newer will be reduced about 30 per cent from the valuations used last year.

Assessors Given Auto Value Guide

The state tax commissioner Monday mailed to county assessors the guide to valuation of automobiles for tax purposes for next year as approved by the State Board of Equalization.

Valuations have been reduced from last year to correspond with lower sales prices on used cars and to bring them more in line with values placed on other types of taxable property, it was pointed out.

In general, it was said, valuations on cars owned last year will be reduced about 50 per cent this year. The same model car but one year newer will be reduced about 30 per cent from the valuations used last year.
